

Deny Dinneen Dismissal of Fraud Charge

Former Commission Secretary Faces Criminal Action

BEGINS APRIL 11

Defense Says Evidence Hasn't Fixed Responsibility

Madison — (U) — Superior Judge Roy H. Proctor today denied a defense motion to dismiss a charge of fraud against William M. Dinneen, former secretary of the public service commission accused of furnishing confidential information to the bankrupt B. E. Buckman investment company.

After listening to arguments of opposing counsel, Judge Proctor ruled that Dinneen must be held for trial on a criminal charge of violating the state securities act.

The former secretary's counsel, Ray T. McCann, contended that state attorneys in the evidence produced at the preliminary hearing thus far, had failed to show Dinneen was responsible for the diversion of letters and documents from the commission files to Buckman company officers.

Special Counsel William H. Spohn, on behalf of the state argued that fraud charge can be proved by a chain of circumstances, that complaints made to the commission by investors had gone through Dinneen's hands, eventually reaching the Buckman company, and that there was at least probable evidence of fraud.

After a brief recess, Attorney McCann informed the court that Dinneen had not present any testimony at this time.

Judge Proctor then ordered that Dinneen be held for trial April 11. Bond of $2,500 which the defendant previously had posted was permitted to stand.

As the hearing resumed today after a lapse of two weeks, McCann charged his motion for dismissal of the charge, contending that special state counsel, in the evidence previously introduced, had failed to show Dinneen was guilty of any violation of the securities law.

Defense Objections

The defense counsel raised three principal objections.

He said the complaint failed to state a cause of action, did not show that any offense was committed and that the evidence failed to prove Dinneen was responsible for the acts charged.

McCann referred to letters and documents which were found in the personal files of Buckman company officers. They included complaints made directly to the public service commission by investors against certain stocks promoted by the company.

McCann argued that the state securities law applies only to persons dealing in securities and that under it no fraud charge can be maintained against an employee of a commission. He also contended that the complaint accused Dinneen of violating the entire chapter without alleging specific offenses.

Denies Probe Hindered

"You cannot charge a defendant with violation of an entire chapter of law," McCann said.

The defense attorney claimed the public service commission had held a hearing on Buckman matters in 1934, thus disproving the claim that investigation of the concern was hindered, delayed or prevented by Dinneen.

Special State Counsel William H. Spohn, Bruno V. Bitker and Lawrence J. Brody all were present while McCann was stating his case. They were to be heard later. Dinneen sat in the background.

School Board President Announces Resignation

Ellsworth, Wis. — (U) — W. C. Peterson, president of the local school board, announced his resignation yesterday.

The board's dismissal of Principal C. E. Gluecking had precipitated a walkout of high school students a week ago. Following a meeting last Wednesday night attended by Superintendent of Schools John Calahan, Peterson stated the board would not rehire Gluecking and that school would reopen Monday.

Cooing In the Zoo

"Commodore," prince of sea lions in the Denver, Colo., zoo, recently lost his mate, grew moody, irritable, sick. Then the zoo got a new sea lioness, middle-aged but graceful, tactful, appealing, and in a jiffy old "Commodore" was himself again, a prince of polly sea lions. So the keepers dubbed the newcomer "Wally." No date yet as to when the two will be mated. Sea lions have ever been listed in Post-Crescent classified want-ads. We prefer home-appeal to zoo-appeal. Hence the success of this one:

Wheeler Hits Lobby Group in Senate Speech

Charges Committee Attempted to 'Browbeat' Witnesses

'ONE-SIDED COURT' Wants Minton to Probe Governors Who Supported Bill

Washington — (U) — Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) charged in the senate today that the lobby committee, headed by Senator Minton (D-Ind.), had attempted to "browbeat" witnesses who appeared before it this morning and was conducting a one-sided "kangaroo court."

Dr. Edward A. Rumely, secretary of the National Committee to Uphold Constitutional Government, refused to answer questions of the committee, which has been opposing the administration's executive reorganization bill.

Wheeler said he wanted Minton "to investigate the governors who called up certain senators and asked them to vote for this bill."

"I want him to investigate," he shouted, "the department heads who called up senators. I want him to investigate the assurances that have come from the White House."

Wants Full Quiz

"I want him to investigate the activities of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the American Federation of Labor, the veterans bureau and the organization of veterans employees, each and all of them."

Charges that "outside influences" were being brought to bear on the Wheeler amendment to the reorganization bill have come from friends and foes of the bill during the three days. Wheeler's amendment, defeated today, would have limited the power of the president in reorganizing departments.

Appearing before the lobby committee earlier in the day, Rumely said his attorney had advised him the subpoena calling for his organization's files constituted a "fishing expedition."

Asks 'Specific' Subpenas

Rumely said if the committee would subpoena "any specific thing" giving the date, address, signature and content of letters desired, he would supply such documents.

The subpoena called for records pertaining to the organization's efforts to "influence, suppress or ferment public opinion" and efforts to influence the passage or defeat of federal legislation.

The National Committee to Uphold Constitutional Government was organized by Frank E. Gannett, Rochester, N. Y., publisher, in 1937, the day after President Roosevelt proposed to reorganize the supreme court. It opposes supreme court reorganization and is now opposing phase of the administration's executive reorganization bill.

Claim 2,000 Dead In Caspe Capture

Report Franco's Troops Continuing Advance To Mediterranean

Hondaje, France, at the Spanish Frontier — (U) — Spanish insurgents announced today that 2,000 government soldiers—mostly foreign volunteers—had been killed in the capture of Caspe, 47 miles from the government's eastern seaboard.

These reports said Generalissimo Francisco Franco's forces continued to advance today along roads leading from Caspe to the Mediterranean in their drive to bisect government Spain.

Caspe, in which a government garrison had been trapped by swiftly encircling insurgents, fell yesterday. The insurgents said many of the prisoners taken there were French.

An official statement issued at Burgos said insurgent Spain "never would constitute a danger to France's borders but would be a bulwark of civilization in southern Europe."

The huge curving Montañan-Alcaniz-Caspe salient burgeoned on toward the Mediterranean on today as insurgents pressed eastward their 10-day-old offensive.

Fall of Alcaniz, southward, also was admitted by government communiques. Surrender of the town left insurgents in control of the Montañan-Alcaniz highway.

Lehman Signs Measure To Safeguard Unborn

Albany, N. Y. — (U) — Governor Lehman's signature enacted today a measure characterized by the state health department as the "first law anywhere with the object of protecting the unborn from congenital syphilis."

The new law, first step in New York's campaign to stamp out the disease, requires that all prospective mothers undergo a blood test for syphilis and that the subsequent birth certificate show whether the test was made. The findings of the examination would not be disclosed.

Described by the department as potentially the savior annually of 13,000 infants from death or disease caused by syphilis, the measure carried the endorsement of public and private health and welfare agencies.

HE'S A WOMAN

Police Captain Robert Kaiser said an examination by St. Louis City hospital physicians disclosed that a "bus boy" for seven years at a downtown hotel was really a woman. The girl, shown here, booked for routine investigation as John Brock, 27, was quoted by the officer as saying she adopted the disguise to get a job.

Supervisors Kill Resolution for State Paving Aid

Proposal for City Link to Superhighway Fails to Win Approval

Upon recommendation of the highway committee, the county board this morning filed a resolution petitioning for state and federal funds for paving N. Meade street from Wisconsin avenue north to Superhighway 41. No comment on the resolution was made.

Paving of N. Meade street would form a northern connecting link between the city and the superhighway.

The highway department will fill in and grade a low spot on County Trunk A near Binghamton this year, according to a report of the highway committee adopted by the board. Improvement of the road was asked in a petition signed by 99 freholders. The petition stated that a low spot in the road allowed water to gather in the spring and prevented travel.

Authorization for the purchase of two light trucks and a motor patrol grader for highway work was asked in a resolution of the highway committee. Action on the resolution will be taken at tomorrow morning.

Early End of Diversion Hearings Is Expected

Washington — (U) — An end within two weeks to hearings on diversion of Lake Michigan water at Chicago appeared probable today.

Leaders of opponents to the Parsons diversion bill said they would meet late next week preparatory to another appearance before the house rivers and harbors committee. Supporters of the bill are scheduled to present their rebuttal testimony next week.

Attorney General O. S. Loomis, Madison, Wis., Timothy Cohan, assistant attorney general of New York, and R. F. Malia, Milwaukee, secretary of the Great Lakes Harbor association, said they would attend next week's conference on final steps in the case.

Groundwood Mill Will Reopen at Menominee

Menominee, Mich. — (U) — The groundwood mill of the Continental division of Southern Kraft corporation here will reopen within the next two weeks after being closed for nearly six years, it was announced yesterday by A. G. Stone, general manager of the division. Groundwood is used in paper manufacture.

The mill was closed June 1, 1932. In the interim the Kraft corporation mill at Marquette, Wis., had been supplied with groundwood shipped from Canada, Stone said.

Fingerprints Lead to Solution of 6-Year-Old Illinois Murder Mystery

Waukegan, Ill. — (U) — A six-year-old murder of a retired farmer was solved today, Deputy Sheriff Thomas E. Kennedy said, with the arrest of five men, one of whom was paroled from Leavenworth penitentiary last week.

The man slain was William Hancock, 80. He was beaten, gagged and bound in his home at Antioch, Ill., by robbers on April 13, 1932.

Kennedy entered the case after other investigators gave it up. A few fingerprints were all he had to guide him.

"Those prints were found on glassware and on furniture in Hancock's home," he said. "The same prints were found on a stolen automobile that was recovered near Kenosha, Wis. Some day we'll find suspects who'll match them."

Yesterday, Kennedy and several other deputies seized two suspects, Edward T. Leonard, 42, who was paroled from Leavenworth last week after serving three years for automobile theft, and Joseph F. Nemmer, 36, at Racine, Wis. The old fingerprint charts were brought out; they fitted and the men confessed, Kennedy said.

TVA Chairman Says Inquiry Not Adequate

'Not Possible' to Arrive at 'Truth' at Present Quiz, He Says

READS STATEMENT

Doubts Hearings Can Develop Pertinent Facts, He Tells Roosevelt

Washington — (U) — White House aides said today that President Roosevelt had warned Chairman Arthur E. Morgan of the Tennessee Valley authority that he was guilty of "Contumacy" in refusing to submit evidence to substantiate his charges against TVA Directors David E. Lilienthal and Harcourt A. Morgan.

Stephen Early, a presidential secretary, said "contumacy" meant resistance to authority. He did not disclose whether the president might attempt to make this accusation against the TVA chairman the basis for action against him. Friends of Morgan contend only congress has power to remove him from office.

Washington — (U) — Chairman Arthur E. Morgan again told President Roosevelt to his face today "it really is not possible" to get to the "truth" of the TVA controversy at the chief executive's personal inquiry.

Appearing at the president's second TVA hearing the chairman said that after a week's "reconsideration" he held the opinion that it was not possible "in sessions of this sort to go deeply and thoroughly enough into the facts pertinent to the issues to get the truth with respect to these matters."

The session was convened with a statement by Mr. Roosevelt that he wished the chairman to reconsider his refusal last Friday to give supporting facts to his charges against his fellow directors, David Lilienthal and Harcourt A. Morgan.

Chairman Morgan then asked permission to read a 10-minute statement, the president granting the request with the reservation that he would interrupt, if need be, to see that facts were adhered to.

Roosevelt Interrupts

When Morgan said he did not believe the presidential hearing could develop facts pertinent to the issues, the president asked him if he had mentioned related to the charges against his colleagues.

The chairman said he was coming to that if it allowed to continue. "It is my duty," the president told Chairman Morgan and Directors Lilienthal and Harcourt A. Morgan, "both to investigate the truth of the charges and to take appropriate action based on the facts of this investigation. The president does not have the sole responsibility for actual administration, but he has a primary and direct responsibility."

"As I emphasized at the earlier session, it is not for the purpose of composing differences because that water has gone over the dam; it is not for the purpose of exploring issues of policy—there is no reason why issues of policy should not be explored by anybody legally authorized to explore them."

Must Have Facts

"It is not the purpose to try to settle their personal differences or disagreements over details of administration. Those are separate subjects."

"The object of this country is, of necessity, because of the circumstances, to ascertain facts, if any, on which charges of personal dishonesty, malfeasance, and official misconduct have been made."

"Just so long as those matters and those alone are outstanding, all other questions—questions of policy, questions of disagreements, questions of methods of administration are necessarily confused, and will continue to be confused until these grave charges of dishonesty, bad faith and misconduct are cleared up."

"Until such time it is impossible to secure administration of the actual work of the TVA or to obtain a fair consideration of issues of policy that may or may not be changed in the future."

Hitler Tells World Reich Forces Give Him Solid Support

Poland Getting Ready For Action on Lithuania's Border

TROOPS PREPARED

Awaits Reply to Ultimatum; Deadline Saturday Afternoon

Warsaw, Poland — (U) — Reliable sources said today that all preparations had been completed along the Lithuanian frontier and a commander-in-chief appointed to direct the Polish army if friction between Poland and Lithuania should flare into war.

The name of the commander-in-chief appointed by Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz was not disclosed. The marshal, supreme commander of the army, planned to return to Warsaw from Wilno after supervising the preparations.

Reports from Wilno said a large number of infantry, artillery, cavalry and motorized units with tanks passed through that city, not far from the disputed border, during last night and this morning.

Poland and the tiny republic Lithuania on the Baltic were near to armed conflict today to settle their 17-year-old quarrel over territory, a quarrel born of the World war.

The Polish government sent to Lithuania last night a strongly worded note demanding a settlement of differences between the two governments.

The note, an ultimatum in character, must be answered by 9 o'clock p. m. Saturday. (2 o'clock p. m. C. S. T.)

The Lithuanian minister in Paris indicated his government's desire to reach some settlement in a communication to the Polish minister, but it was not apparent whether the communication preceded or followed the ultimatum.

If it is not answered, or if it is answered unsatisfactorily, private but reliable Polish informants said there is the likelihood that Poland will resort to arms.

Will Go to Wilno

Reports were current today that Army Commander General Smigly-Rydz was preparing to go to Wilno, 20 miles from the Lithuanian frontier, to use his powerful personal influence.

Dispatches from Wilno said a large number of infantry, artillery, cavalry and motorized units passed through the city on the way to the Lithuanian frontier.

All morning airplanes were seen over Warsaw heading north, presumably for Wilno.

Polish banking circles said they had received word from Kaunas indicating Lithuania would yield to Poland's demands.

The Polish foreign office itself would not discuss contents of the ultimatum.

France and Russia to Cooperate in Crisis

Official Quarters Disclosed France Would Attempt Immediately to Induce Poland, Which Has Issued an Ultimatum to Lithuania, to Moderate its Stand

Paris — (U) — France and Russia agreed today to bring simultaneous pressure to bear on Poland and Lithuania for peaceful settlement of their friction, menacing the peace of Europe.

Official quarters disclosed France would attempt immediately to induce Poland, which has issued an ultimatum to Lithuania, to moderate its stand.

Russia was to use her influence to persuade Lithuania to concede enough to ease the tension.

Poland is an ally of France. Lithuania and Russia are bound by a non-aggression treaty.

France, a spokesman said, will point out to Poland that invasion of Lithuania could pave the way for Germans to occupy Memel and add fuel to the threatening conflagration in Europe. Memel is a German city ceded to Lithuania when that country was created after the World war.

Says Austria Absorption Saved Thousands Of Lives

L A U D S MUSSOLINI

Declares Italian Frontiers Safe From German Attacks

Berlin — (U) — Adolf Hitler tonight declared to Germany and the world that his absorption of Austria into the German realm had "saved thousands of lives."

The fuhrer said "it is a pity that the democracies do not understand" why and how he added Austria to the German nation.

"Behind me are 75,000,000 people," he shouted. "Before me stands Germany's armed might."

He took occasion to allay Italian fears that Germany's advance to the Brenner pass menaces Italy. Thanking Premier Mussolini for his attitude toward the coup, Hitler said:

"Italy's frontiers remain for us inviolate. Behind this word stands the German nation."

Addressing the reichstag in the Kroll opera house, the fuhrer began his speech at 8:05 p. m. (1:05 p. m. C. S. T.) and ended 38 minutes later.

Barcelona Faces Continuous Rebel Aerial Bombings

Fascists Threaten to Attack Until City Surrenders

The Thirteenth Air Raid Since 11 P. M. Wednesday Left a Total of 569 Dead and 1,000 Wounded

Barcelona, Spain — (U) — Swift insurgent bombers struck again and again at blood-soaked Barcelona today, carrying out a threat to attack continuously until the city surrenders.

The thirteenth air raid since 11 p. m. Wednesday left a total of 569 dead and 1,000 wounded.

Eight-winged bombers wheeled over the city at 7 o'clock a. m., just as thousands of men, women and children in this city of more than 1,000,000 people were streaming homeward from subway stations after a night of fearful refuge.

The roar of bombs and anti-aircraft batteries sent them rushing back to shelter. At 8:40 a. m. the bombers returned.

Officials put the dead at 50 and the wounded at 100 in these two raids. Five hundred and ten were killed in previous bombings.

The raiders yesterday dropped leaflets over the city that the bombings would continue every two to three hours until the city was forced to its knees.

Hospital Threatened

The insurgent planes droned over this city of a million inhabitants at 1:10 a. m., dropping their bomb cargoes near a hospital in the suburbs.

The bombers returned again and struck at a residential quarter.

Ten times yesterday and last evening Barcelona underwent bombardment. Other insurgent planes attacked Tarragona and San Vicente on the Mediterranean.

Many may lay dead beneath shattered masonry, no one knew. Hundreds of wounded were trapped in wrecked buildings, and weeping women stumbled among rescue workers in search of shelter as the bombardments continued.

Whitney Is Read Out of Exchange

Dismissed for Life While Two Partners Are Suspended for 3 Years

New York — (U) — Richard Whitney, faller, "strong man" of Wall street, was read out of the New York Stock Exchange for life today.

The bankrupt broker, who faces a possible prison term of 20 years for grand larceny, was expelled by the governing committee for "conduct contrary to just and equitable principles of trade."

The expulsion order, voted by the committee last night, was read from the rostrum which Whitney mounted eight years ago as president of the exchange by his successor in that office, Charles R. Gay.

The $60,000 membership, which he purchased in 1912 at the age of 21, will be sold to the highest bidder and the proceeds turned over to creditors of his firm.

Two of Whitney's partners, Edwin D. Morgan, Jr., and Henry D. Mygatt, were suspended for three years. The governors absolved them of any knowledge of Whitney's "wrongful acts" but voted disciplinary action against them under a rule that holds all members responsible for acts of a firm.

The firm's curb exchange member, John J. McManus, was suspended from that organization for one year.

Whitney has pleaded guilty to indictments charging him with the larceny of securities valued at more than $200,000. Sentence will be pronounced March 28.

Schuschnigg May Be Permitted to Stay in Austria

Vienna — (U) — The ousted Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg may be permitted to remain in nazified Austria.

Propaganda ministry officials said today the question was not definitely settled, but that it was unlikely either that Schuschnigg, now guarded in his castle apartment, would be placed on trial or that he would be removed from the country.

Nazi spokesmen in Berlin indicated the fallen chancellor, who tried to oppose Austria-German union, would be permitted to decide for himself where he will live.

New Reich Elections

Preceding the fuhrer to the rostrum, Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goerring, the president of the reichstag, announced that body's dissolution and new German elections April 10, the same day on which Austrians will vote in a plebiscite on their entry into the German state.

"I have called you together to give you from a deeply moved heart a report of happenings the significance of which is apparent to you all, Hitler said.

"In addition I have to acquaint you with decisions affecting the German people and the reichstag itself."

He went on with a review of the last year's achievements.

"Rights Violated"

"The only people in Europe," Hitler continued, "who were denied the most natural right of self-determination were the Germans. The World war and its end increased German disunity and seemed to perpetuate on top of all other misfortune the misery of the separation of a most valuable part of the nation from the mother country."

"Instead of Wilson's right of self-determination of peoples, on the basis of which we laid down our arms, there came a most brutal violation of the national rights of numerous millions of Germans," Hitler continued.

"Rights which were conceded to the most primitive colonial tribes and self-evident were denied to an old, cultured people of this continent on grounds as untenable as they were offensive."

Plebiscite Ignored

"This violation," he continued, "was admitted with cynical frankness."

The fuhrer recalled that long before there was national socialism in Austria or Germany a plebiscite showed that 95 per cent were in favor of union of the two countries. He added that this plebiscite was ignored.

He continued:

"How could Germany stand by idly when millions of Germans across her borders were cruelly maltreated? I told Schuschnigg (former Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria) that revolutionary outbreaks were inevitable and left him no doubt that Anschluss was desired by millions."

"Schuschnigg broke the Berchtesgaden agreement. The plebiscite he proposed was bound to fail. I was determined to save Austria from the fate of Spain."

"The ultimatum that caused such a stir abroad was to be the means to avoid bloodshed."

"If I had not done so I would have been compelled to do so later anyway. Schuschnigg probably did not believe I would take the action which, no man thank God, saved thousands of lives."

Happy Over Union

"Imagine my happiness to be able to join to the reich a country not in ruins but filled with a happy people."

"Behind me are 75,000,000. Before me stands Germany's armed force. 'It is a pity that the democracies do not understand this procedure.'"

"Only from Poland, Hungary, Yugoslavia and a few others, especially Italy, came friendly comment."

If warmly thank the Italian chief of state, Italy's frontiers remain for us inviolate.

"Behind this word stands the German nation."

End Opposition

A source close to the chancellery said today that Germany's opposition to the threat of Polish military action in Lithuania had been withdrawn in return for Polish acquiescence in a possible German annexation of the free city of Danzig.

German observers began speculating whether a German march into Memel, which Germans consider for himself where he will live.)

Stevens Point Woman Leaves $110,000 Estate

Stevens Point — (U) — An estimated estate of $110,000 was left by Mrs. Elizabeth Corlett of Stevens Point, it was revealed yesterday through terms of her will, which has been filed for probate.

Mrs. Corlett, who died March 5, left a will and two codocils providing for large bequests to religious and public organizations and to relatives and friends. The largest single bequest is to Wilson Petty, Otsego, Mich., a first cousin.

Naval Program Is Expected to Pass By Large Majority

Opponents Still Trying to Establish Definite 'Naval Frontiers'

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt termed excellent today the domestic reaction to Secretary Hull's speech which charted for America a middle course between internationalism and isolation.

The president said he had not yet seen the comments from abroad. Replying to questions at his press conference, Mr. Roosevelt said he was not considering lifting the arms embargo on Spain. A reporter had asked whether this was a possibility in view of Secretary Hull's criticism of aggressors and the facts that Italy and Germany could obtain arms from the United States.

An interrogator tried to bring out the president's views on a suggestion that operations in the American navy be limited to a sphere close to the American shores and possessions. The president said he could talk for two hours on that subject, but that he did not intend to.

This was one issue involved in the last stages of house consideration of the billion-dollar naval program. Tentative approval of a 20 per cent increase in the American fleet already had been given.

Washington—(AP)—Tentative approval of a 20 per cent increase in the American fleet gave administration leaders confidence today that the house would pass the billion-dollar naval program by an overwhelming margin.

Before the final roll call on Monday, foes of the bill were making a determined effort to strike out to so-called policy section which would commit the navy to a non-aggressive rule but assign it to "protect our commerce and citizens abroad."

Instead, the opponents favored a proposal by Representative Kniffin (D-Ohio) to establish "naval frontiers" of the United States, behind which the fleet would be impounded unless attacked. This plan would require the withdrawal of all American warships from Asiatic waters.

"Windy Rhetoric"

Representative Maverick (D-Texas) called the bill's policy statement "mere windy rhetoric" but urged its elimination on the grounds that it would permit "a lieutenant in the navy—or even a petty officer—to get the United States into war."

The fleet increase which the house tentatively authorized would permit construction of 46 new warships, 22 auxiliary vessels and 950 airplanes.

By a 98 to 63 vote, the house refused yesterday to kill a provision for building three new battleships. It also declined to make their construction contingent on the calling of an international disarmament conference.

Suggest Joint Action

One suggestion to discuss joint action against aggressor nations was sent to world powers yesterday, by Maxim Litvinov, soviet commissar for foreign affairs. Of that proposal Senator Pittman (D-Nev.), who often speaks for the state department in congress, said "it would do only too much to be deceptive to discuss collective action when it is obvious that several governments are ready to take military advantage of each other as quickly as possible."

Pittman pointed out that Secretary Hull "indirectly" went on record yesterday in his speech before the National Press club as being against Litvinov's proposal.

Hull's speech was approved by many legislators of both major parties, but members of the senate's "neutrality" bloc took exception to his criticism of their proposed war referendum amendment.

Japanese Troops Capture Lincheng

Chinese Report Tungkwang Bombardment Ended After Counter-Attack

Shanghai—(AP)—Reinforced Japanese troops driving down the Tientsin-Pukow railway in Shantung province, today claimed the capture of Lincheng, scene in 1923 of the kidnapping of Lucy T. Aldrich, sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

(Miss Aldrich, captured by bandits, was released a few days later and reached safety. Lincheng is about 20 miles north of the Yellow river.)

On the western end of the Yellow river front, Chinese claimed a counter-attack across the river dislodged Japanese and ended the bombardment of Tungkwang. The success permitted resumption of traffic on that has been the object of a ten-week Japanese campaign. Tungkwang is located on the south bank of the river where it turns sharply northward.

In informed Chinese quarters here it was reported a reorganization of the Chinese central government to strengthen plans for a prolonged resistance to Japan was scheduled for March 29 at a plenary meeting of the Kuomintang (national peoples party).

Japanese dispatches reported that mopping up columns moving in from four directions had trapped 20,000 Chinese in the walled city of Kwangchi, in Anhwei province, 70 miles southwest of Wuhu. The city was being bombed severely from the air.

Hunt Negro in Attack Upon Milwaukee Girl

Milwaukee—(AP)—A 19-year-old Bible school student, reporting she had been assaulted by a Negro, was taken to Emergency hospital today for treatment of severe lacerations and bruises.

The girl said that as she walked in the 1800 block on N. Tenth street about midnight, a young Negro seized her, choked her, dragged her behind a house, and attacked her.

The girl, upon regaining consciousness, staggered to a streetcar and fell into a seat. The motorman and a woman passenger noticed her condition and sent her to the hospital.

The police took seven Negroes into custody for questioning. Three were taken to the hospital, but the girl failed to identify any of them and they were released.

Poland Getting Ready for Action Along Boundary demands made upon the little neighbor country but the newspaper Weizor Warszawski said they dealt with six points:

1. Immediate reestablishment of diplomatic relations, non-existent for 17 years.
2. Resumption of railway and postal communications.
3. Withdrawal of Lithuanian constitutional claims to Wilno as Lithuania's capital.
4. An agreement on treatment of each country's minority population.
5. Commercial and customs treaties.
6. Redress for the frontier incident to March 11 in which a Polish border guard was killed.

Center of Dispute

Lithuania and Poland have been at odds since World war treaties established their independence, and their dispute since October, 1920, chiefly has been centered on Wilno.

The Polish General Zeigowski took possession of the city then (along with one third of Lithuania, leaving it a territory less than half the size of New York state.)

Lithuania never has recognized the resulting border with Poland and consistently has referred to it as a demarcation line, constantly guarded on both sides by heavily armed soldiers.

Lithuania has only a small army, around 20,000 men, and Poles here believe the normal Polish garrison at Wilno, about 60,000 men, will be sufficient should it be decided to move across the border.

An important factor may be the position of Germany, which considers Lithuanian Memel, lost by Germany in the World war settlement, a part of that territory which one day must be returned to the reich.

Having already annexed Austria, it is possible that Germany might take advantage of any lengthy disorder in the Baltic to press her claims for Memel.

PARLIAMENT CALLED

Kaunas, Lithuania—(AP)—The government today summoned the seimas (parliament) to meet tomorrow to decide how to answer a Polish ultimatum demanding "normalization" of relations between the two countries.

The government banned anti-Polish demonstrations to prevent new tension. Lithuanian semi-military nationalist organizations were demanding rejection of the Polish demands.

The government's attitude was described as conciliatory, but news that the Polish army chief, Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, had arrived at Wilno, near the frontier, sent a wave of excitement through Lithuania.

President Antanas Smetona summoned his ministers, army leaders and members of parliament to discuss the crisis.

The cabinet meanwhile consulted friendly powers on possible means of peaceful settlement and studied the Polish note, described as of "extremely grave character."

The Polish note was said to answer the Lithuanian proposal of March 14 that the two governments appoint plenipotentiaries to clarify the incident of March 11 in which a Polish border guard was killed.

Lithuania also had proposed to open negotiations to prevent a repetition.

BALTIC 'SORE SPOTS' BRING NEW CRISIS

Adolf Hitler's sudden return to Berlin from Austria was ascribed to word that Poland had presented an ultimatum to Lithuania, presumably based on a clash March 11 along the frontier (1) between the two countries. Relations have been strained since the Poles seized Vilna (2) 18 years ago.

The Polish corridor (3) is a sore spot between Poland and Germany and Memel (4), once a part of Germany, but now administered by Lithuania, is a point of contention between those two countries.

Confesses Two Slayings, Attempts to Leap to Death but Is Expected to Live

Buffalo, N. Y.—(AP)—Peter Burton, 39-year-old Detroit electrician, probably will survive to face trial in a double slaying to which police said he confessed a moment before he plunged three stories.

Burton, closely guarded, lay in Emergency hospital today suffering from a compound frontal skull fracture and internal injuries.

Chief of Detectives John J. Whalen said Burton from his hospital pillow told how he strangled his estranged wife and her landlady, Mrs. Ursula Jakubowski, in a Detroit rooming house last Monday and fled to Buffalo, his former home.

Questioned throughout the day by Buffalo and Detroit detectives, Burton had arisen finally from his chair, Detective Sergeant Clarence McGee related, and exclaimed: "All right, I killed both of them. Now can I have a drink of water?"

Leaps From Window

As a detective left to get him a drink, Burton ran to the partly open window and threw himself out.

"I grabbed him by the foot but the shoe came off and down he plunged," said McGee.

Burton catapulted head first to the sidewalk. John Massaro, a 14-year-old newsboy, was slightly hurt when Burton's body struck his leg.

Whalen questioned Burton in the hospital last night. He told him, Whalen said, that his former wife, Mrs. Monica Janonis, refused his plea for a reconciliation and they quarreled.

"He said he attacked her," Whalen announced, "and that the landlady, Mrs. Jakubowski, tried to come to her rescue.

"Mrs. Janonis fainted, and Burton told how he turned on the landlady and strangled her with a towel. Then, he said, he garroted his former wife with a cord.

"He told us he took $20 from the landlady's purse and came to Buffalo."

Washington, Chi Sox Trade First Sackers

Orlando, Fla.—(AP)—Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators today announced he had traded first baseman Joe Kuhel to the Chicago White Sox for first baseman Zeke Bonura.

He said it was a player for player trade with no money involved. Bonura has been holding out for a salary increase from Chicago but Griffith said he and Bonura had reached terms during a telephone conversation.

Kuhel, who is 33 years old, has been with the Senators since 1931. He has an eight-year batting average of .291. He hit 322 in 1933 and .283 last season.

Bonura, who is 30, went to the White Sox from Dallas of the Texas league in 1934. His major league batting average is .302 and he hit .315 last season.

Compromise Plan On Reorganization Bill Turned Down

Supporters of Measure Expect Passage as It Now Stands

Washington—(AP)—The senate voted today to permit the president to transfer and consolidate federal agencies without obtaining congressional ratification of his actions.

The chamber rejected an amendment to the administration's government reorganization bill which would have required congressional approval before any reorganization order could become effective.

The vote was 43 to 39. The amendment submitted by Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) would have compelled congress to give consideration to executive orders under the bill as soon as they were received from the president.

Washington—(AP)—Supporters of the government reorganization bill, expressing confidence the legislation will pass as drafted, rejected compromise offers today from opponents seeking to limit the power of the president to reshuffle departments.

At the same time the senate lobby committee began an investigation of what Chairman Minton (D-Ind.) called "outside propaganda against the bill."

It would have altered terms of an amendment by Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.), requiring that congress act within 10 days on a reorganization order. Wheeler's amendment, as it stands, also would change a provision of the bill that congress must enact legislation, subject to the president's veto, to halt proposed changes.

The house, meanwhile, prepared for a final vote Monday on legislation to authorize a 20 per cent increase in the size of the navy. The increase won tentative approval yesterday, 98 to 63.

Committee discussion of a new wage-house bill continued. The American Federation of Labor's proposal for a flat 40-cent-40-hour program was described as unconstitutional by the labor department.

Brockelhurst Goes to His Death in Arkansas

Tucker Farm, Ark.—(AP)—Lester Brockelhurst, 24-year-old, confessed hitch-hiking killer, was electrocuted today protesting his crimes did not warrant the death penalty.

Brockelhurst was convicted of the hitch-hike slaying last May of Victor A. Gates, Little Rock landowner. He was arrested in New York state on a minor traffic law violation a few days after the Gates killing, together with his sweetheart, Bernice Felton of Rockford, Ill.

He confessed the killing. Gates, Albert Anderson of Rockford and Jack Griffith at Fort Worth, Texas, during a hitch hiking tour across 18 states.

He was placed in the electric chair shortly after sun-up. He went to death just ahead of his death-house cell-mate of the last several months, 30-year-old Joe Newt Sims, farmer and WPA worker, convicted of chopping his young wife to death with an ax on Mother's day of 1937.

In his final statement, Brockelhurst spoke with bitterness of his

"I am firmly of the opinion that this proposal, if adopted, would not benefit the corn-hog industry of this country even temporarily."

Hull voiced his objections to the proposed import tax of 6 cents a pound on pork products in a letter to Chairman Harrison (D-Miss.) of the senate finance committee. That group is studying the tax bill passed by the house.

Receipts from the suggested tariff have been estimated at $5,000,000 a year. Hull questioned whether they would be that large, but said that in any event, the revenue would be far outweighed by the disastrous effects on reciprocal trade agreements.

From Senator Connally (D-Texas), a finance committee member, came an announcement he would seek to attach to the tax revision bill a proposal to wipe out war profiteering.

Student Engineers Prepare for Parade, War With Lawyers

Madison—(AP)—Engineering students of the University of Wisconsin will hold their annual St. Pat's parade Saturday and the city street department is sedly contemplating the job of cleaning up debris.

The police department did its part today by making the yearly announcement that any lawyer students pelling the engineers with eggs and cabbages will be jailed.

This is one of the favorite methods of the prospective attorneys to give force to their claim that St. Patrick was a lawyer—not an engineer.

When the parade was over last year State street was littered with various kinds of vegetables, eggs and other debris hurled from the tops of buildings. It took the street department about five hours to clean up the mess.

This must not happen again, the police said, but they have their doubts.

Wisconsin Michigan Firm to Extend Lines

Lansing, Mich.—(AP)—The Michigan public utilities commission announced Thursday the Wisconsin Michigan Power company had agreed to extend its rural electrification lines into 11 upper peninsula counties.

Commissioner Joseph M. Donnelly said between 300 and 500 farmers in Iron, Dickinson, Monmouth, Delta, Schoolcraft, Marquette, Gogebic, Houghton, Alger, Baraga and Ontonagon counties would benefit.

The company reached a compromise yesterday in a rate dispute with the Ontonagon county rural electrification cooperative association, which will buy power from the company and resell it to member-customers in Ontonagon county.

Court Refuses to Advance Hearing On Bank Case Plea

Turns Down Commission On Action Involving Milwaukee Bank

Madison—(AP)—The supreme court denied today a motion of the state banking commission to schedule a hearing in May, instead of next fall, on an appeal from a Milwaukee circuit court order involving an assessment against stockholders of the Milwaukee Commercial bank.

Shortly after the bank was placed on a moratorium July 19, 1932, stockholders voluntarily pledged 50 per cent assessments to pay claims. Circuit Judge Charles L. Aarons later ruled that the shareholders were liable for an additional 100 per cent assessment, made by the banking commission. The decision was appealed.

Suel O. Arnold, attorney for the commission, told the high court today the case was given precedence in the Milwaukee court to speed up liquidation, and that he believed the statutes provided for similar advancement on the supreme court calendar.

Attorney Irving A. Fish, of the Prudential Investment company, one of 400 stockholders, argued the Strong Labor Movement Held Curb on Dictators

Madison—(AP)—A strong labor movement in the United States could prevent the possibility of dictatorship here said Joseph A. Padway, newly-appointed A.F. of L. chief counsel, in a speech at a testimonial dinner in his honor.

"A united labor movement can stop the fascist poisoners of Europe from seeping into this country," said Padway. "But once the dictators take hold with their guns, lathes and concentration camps it may be too late. Labor is the bulwark against such an encroachment."

Padway said that in Washington Wisconsin is recognized as "the testing ground for the great liberal movement affecting the workers of the nation."

bank was not insolvent. He said its liabilities totaled about $650,000, but that its assets, although frozen at present, were substantially higher.

"There is a strong possibility all claims can be paid by fall and that further proceedings would be unnecessary if the case is given routine treatment," Fish said.

Fish said he understood the appeal would be placed on the August calendar, arguments would be heard in September and the decision could be handed down in October.

Chief Justice Marvin B. Rosenberry declared he did not believe the case merited advancement on the calendar.

Business Is at Critical Point Of 'Recession'

Babson Says Inertia at Washington Is Jeopardizing Recovery

BY ROGER BABSON
Babson Park, Fla.—Business this month is the worst in three years. Activity is now back to the level of the spring of 1935. It is 28 per cent below a year ago, although still about 33 per cent above the depression bottom of March, 1933. My New York forecast called for a bad first-quarter, at least 15 per cent below a year ago. We are having it all right. The drop is averaging even more than I predicted. It is about 23 per cent.

As 1938 opened there were signs of a turn-up. Business did move ahead two or three per cent between mid-January and mid-February. During the last four weeks, however, things have slipped off again. Business now is 2 per cent lower than a month ago. There has been a sharp drop in retail sales of all kinds. Despite big bargains in most lines, those with good incomes are afraid to buy. Moreover, others have no money to spend. Four million people have lost jobs since a year ago. Payrolls have been slashed nearly $100,000,000 weekly. Farm income has held up well; but it, too, has fallen from earlier levels.

Retail Trade Dropped
In addition to these inroads, there is the cutting and passing of dividend payments to investors. February payments to investors were $300,000,000 against $350,000,000 last year. As a result of all these reductions in income, total purchasing power is far below the peaks of 1937. It is not surprising, therefore, that retail trade has suffered. Actually it is remarkable that sales have been as good as they have. Buying is off only about 15 per cent from the 1937 level while industrial activity has sagged 30 per cent.

We are now in the critical period of the "recession." The next few months should tell whether or not I must revise my forecast for the entire year. Up until now there has been little danger of another major depression. Basic conditions have been sound. There has been no speculative pyramiding of real estate or stocks. Banks are not loaded up with questionable securities and loans. Prices of raw materials are back at attractive levels and inventories of goods have been thoroughly cleaned up in most industries.

Danger Point Near
Business is constantly moving one way or another. It does not stay at a standstill very long. Most of the recession came before the New Year. Since then there has been only a minor decline. We are now at a critical point. The sharp drop in purchasing power is a major signal. Depressions are nothing more than a continuous downward spiral in buying power. Prosperity is the opposite process. Once the spiral picks up momentum it is mighty hard to stop. Business has been very slow for six months and the spiral has been getting a good start. We will not be in a major depression, however, until pay cuts and lay-offs are the word everywhere. The order "to cut" has not yet been given out wholesale.

I liken the present situation to a run-away freight train coming down the mountain. There are plenty of opportunities to switch it off on a spur track before it wrecks a passenger train in the station in the valley below. The train has already passed several of these cut-offs. But the yard-men apparently cannot decide which cut-off to use. They are standing around arguing among themselves over some petty railroad red tape. Meanwhile the freight slides on toward the village below. In my analogy, business is the run-away freight, while our congressional leaders are the blundering yard-men.

Nero Fiddles
Since the "recession" started, congress has been in session nearly four months. Only two important acts have been passed: The Housing act and the Farm act. Both are "Recovery Measures," but neither one gets at the root of our trouble. The Housing act would stop building if union labor would help. But it can do little under current conditions with labor costs exorbitantly high. The Farm act is so complicated that few people even understand it. The feeling is that it will aid somewhat—but largely in the direction of more "hand-outs." Every businessman knows what the real problem is today. Lack of confidence in the future because of unnecessary federal spending and a vicious taxation system! Every member of congress knows this, too. Yet Washington dilly-dallies over politics and does nothing about the housecleaning that is necessary. Taxes are throttling new enterprise and expansion but the proposed revenue bill is just a reshuffle of the present patch-work system. The utilities would spend millions on new construction if congress would end the terrific uncertainties which this industry faces. Inertia at Washington is jeopardizing recovery!

I have not turned bearish, however. There are still two possibilities

ities which can yank us out of the current slump—

1. Fundamental conditions are sound. Many industries are stabilizing. Financial factors, such as bank deposits, are improving. Spring buying can help business wriggle out of the clutches of pessimism despite Washington. Remember we are not yet in a major depression—even though we must go one way or the other shortly.

2. The president is waiting until the psychological time to announce his "recession-ending" program. He and his advisers are convinced that business should be ready to go ahead in April or May. Then he will announce his program in order to get the credit at the polls in November, if business picks-up.

Surely now is not the time to dump overboard good securities, homes and other property. Remember that every day of depression brings inflation nearer. If this "recession" turns into a major depression, currency inflation will come all the sooner. Meanwhile, as a selfish as well as a patriotic gesture, protest to your congressman and senators. Demand an end to business persecution. Remember it is the consumer who pays the bill of government—not the Morgans, Rockefellers and the Rocks.

Eyes of Dead Would be Used to Restore Vision

San Francisco—A plan that may give sight from the eyes of the dead to 250,000 blind persons in the United States was announced Thursday by a group of eye specialists here.

Dr. Martin I. Green said the plan was to transfer cornea sections from the eyes of newly dead persons on a mass scale to the eyes of living patients. The operation, he said, must be performed within 24 hours of death.

Dr. J. C. Geiger, public health director, and other city officials commended humanitarianism of the program, but said present laws would have to be amended before it could be put into effect.

Author of Social Security Act Will Address Teachers

Edwin E. Witte, Madison, To Talk at Educator's Convention

An outstanding authority, Edwin E. Witte, economics professor at the University of Wisconsin, will speak on "Social Security" at the general session of the Northeastern Wisconsin Education association convention here April 8.

Professor Witte is one of the original authors of the social security act and spent several years in Washington cooperating with the administration. He is reputed to know more about the present social security act than anyone in the country. Previous to his work at the university, Professor Witte spent 15 years in the state legislative reference library and was a student of Dr. Charles McCarthy, who founded the library. He also lectured for several years on political science before his work with the National Social Security board.

Albert Trathem, director of the annuities and investment board, Madison, will talk on "The State Retirement Law" before the Junior high school section of which O. H. Lowe, Sheboygan, is chairman.

Dr. R. B. Thiel, professor of education at Lawrence college will speak on "The New Tenure Law for Teachers" before the same group. Combining for Dr. Thiel's talk will be the superintendents, principals and junior high school teachers.

U. W. Professors Talk on Variety Of Farm Problems

Large Audiences Hear Experts in All-Day Program at Kaukauna

Kaukauna—University of Wisconsin professors addressed large gatherings of farmers here yesterday morning and afternoon at the farm institute at Kaukauna High school. Talks in the morning and afternoon, a free lunch served by the Kaukauna Advancement association at 12 o'clock, and an exhibition basketball contest under the supervision of Clifford H. Kemp constituted the program.

James T. Judd, instructor in agriculture at the high school, opened the program, outlining its objectives and offering his services and the facilities of the high school department at all times to the farmers of this region.

R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent, then spoke briefly, stating that the farmers around Kaukauna were fortunate in having an agricultural department at the high school, and adding he hoped to see more of them in the county. He listed services the departments were capable of giving, especially grain treatment, and predicted that their aid to the farmers would continue to grow.

Talks on Barley
"Problems in Raising Malt Barley" was the subject of Professor R. E. Vaughn. The state of Wisconsin ranks about fourth in the country as a barley producer, and Outagamie county produces from one-half to three-fourths million bushels annually, on approximately 13,000 acres. Although use has always been an important region of barley production, the demand by malters for barley has been sharply increasing our acreage," Vaughn said.

"It may be cut too green, it may be a heavy yielding feed variety, or it may be diseased. If growers wish to take advantage of the large market offered by sale to malters they must be careful to grow an acceptable strain."

Three strains were listed by Vaughn as the right kind, Wisconsin pedigree No. 38 smooth arm, Minnesota velvet, and the Otterbrucker strain. The Wisconsin type is particularly good, as it is high yielding and resistant to several barley diseases.

Discusses Diseases
Vaughn then discussed the various diseases which may afflict a barley crop. Even a good yield of 40 to 50 bushels, if the barley is diseased, is not good for the malt market, he said. When grain comes into the exchange to be purchased for malting purposes, if more than five per cent of it is unsatisfactory it must be sold as feed barley.

"Malt barley must be quick ripening," Vaughn continued, "and the perfect climate for this is in Wisconsin, especially the eastern part. Wisconsin last year produced from 20 to 25 million bushels out of a national production of about 75 million, and there is no danger of overproduction."

Vaughn recommended that soils be analyzed early for fertility, so that the proper use of commercial fertilizers could be ascertained. Some soils have a deficiency in phosphoric acid and potash, which a test will find out.

Explains Remedies
Vaughn concluded with a discussion of the diseases of barley—the symptoms and means of prevention. He recalled the epidemic of grain rust carried to this part of the state by high winds last year, and explained a device by which seed grain could be treated with dry dust, recommending this method over the old formaldehyde treatment. The product kills the growth of smut inside the covered types, he said, without injuring the germination of the kernel.

Professor J. B. Hayes spoke on poultry problems, the raising of chicks and the regulating of egg production. Causes of poultry deaths were listed as diseases, accidents, cannibalism, lack of longevity and lack of vigor, and each cause discussed and remedies given.

Professor R. E. Collettine spoke on "Problems in Animal Husbandry," outlining means of improving herds and maintaining present high standards. Herd rehabilitation is needed as much today as soil rehabilitation, Collettine said.

Brazil destroyed five million more bags of coffee than it exported during the last year. Coffee shipments totaled 12,119,000 bags while 17,198,000 bags were destroyed.

Map Program for City-Farm Night

Musicians and Gymnasium Students Will Perform At Auditorium

Kaukauna—Final arrangements for the City-Farm program on Tuesday evening have been completed and the events announced.

The program, to be held at 7:30 in the civic auditorium, will open with a half hour of music by the Kaukauna High school band, under the direction of Clarence Kriesa. Chairman George R. Greenwood, president of the Kaukauna Advancement association, will explain the purpose of the meeting, and Mayor Lewis F. Nelson will make an address of welcome. The physical education department of the high school, under the supervision of Clifford H. Kemp, instructor, will then demonstrate dancing steps—fox tap, and athletic.

The physical education students will follow with a boys' and girls' tumbling exhibition, after which Genevieve Wrensch will give a clarinet solo. The clarinet quartet, composed of Jean Nyles, Margaret O'Connor, Jeanne Reynolds and Armella Boucher, then will perform, followed by an exhibition of pyramid building by the physical education students.

A march, "Arabian Nights," by the high school band will close the program. Admission will be free.

Kaukauna Girl Scouts

Pass Advancement Tests

Kaukauna—Tests were passed at Wednesday night's meeting of Kaukauna girl scouts at American Legion hall. The tests and the successful scouts were cooking badge, first class requirement, Jean Derus, Anna Marie Van De Loo, Marion Egan; tent pitching, Mary McCarthy; sewing, Agnes Rohan, Marion Egan; nature study, Betty Miller, Lois Berg; knots, Ruth Nagel, Mickey Rupert; pledge of allegiance and the flag, Mickey Rupert; first class signalling, Jean Derus; national anthem and flag, Clarence Lamers; trail signs, Joan Leddy; first aid, Sally Bay, Arsellia Schmalz; five points of health, Mary Lou Haas.

The United States leads the world in number of telephones to the population, there being 142 sets for every 100 inhabitants. Sweden is second with 11.8 sets for every 100 people.

Parents to Attend Investiture Service Of Boy Scout Troop

Kaukauna—Parents and the general public are invited to the investiture night of Holy Cross Troop No. 31 boy scouts at 7 o'clock Thursday night. The affair will be held in Holy Cross church auditorium.

Eight applicants will receive the rank of tenderfoot, two will go from second class to first class, and one scout, Tom McCarthy, will receive the star scout award.

Francis Wagner is a new member of the troop committee. Scoutmaster Orris Schmalz announced last night.

Colbert to Talk On State Planning

U. of W. Professor Will Address Community Class Tonight

Kaukauna—The "Progress of Planning in Wisconsin," is the topic for discussion at tonight's class in community development in the council rooms of the municipal building. The lectures are conducted by Professor R. J. Colbert of the University of Wisconsin economics department.

Dr. Colbert has announced that at a later class Professor Auberg, noted for his city planning projects, will speak.

In his last lecture Colbert stated that Kaukauna had a good start in any community planning project, as its important buildings are centrally located—the municipal building, post office, library and high school.

A group storage refrigerating unit was recommended by Colbert, in view of the fact that the city has cheap power to operate such a plant.

Kaukauna Park Crew

To Begin Work April 1

Kaukauna—Park workers will go on duty April 1, it was decided at a meeting of the board of public works yesterday afternoon. Several changes were also made concerning the present sewer project. The project has now been completed over the canal, and the men are now working up Augustine street, according to Jule Mertes, chairman of the sewer committee.

Child Personality Subject of Talk At Clintonville

Miss Alice Brady Addresses Parent-Teacher Association

Clintonville — "The Development of a Child's Personality" was the subject of an address by Miss Alice Brady of Green Bay before the Parent-Teacher association Wednesday evening at the high school auditorium. Identified with public school work for 25 years, Miss Brady is now director of the elementary schools at Green Bay. "Personality is hard to define," began the speaker, "but it might be termed that indefinable something which makes one person a success and another a failure. It is also that quality in a person which makes you glad that you met one or sorry that you became acquainted with another. It has become a part of the school course to develop personality in children, which is equally as important as teaching them the fundamentals of arithmetic or some other subject."

She also commented that many schools have taken over part of the training that should be done in the home. "Teaching a child ought to be done by the parents and not through a school banking system. Proper health habits can also be better taught in the home, although the school can do much to show the child the correct rules to follow. It is really up to the parents to see that the rules are carried out."

The speaker cited a case of where a young man of her acquaintance is now dying with tuberculosis in a sanitarium. She recalled that in the grade school his name headed the "good health" chart for sleeping with his window open and carrying out other good health habits. When Miss Brady visited the young man and questioned him about this, he now admitted that he raised his hand when the teacher asked, "Who slept with his window open last night?" only because he was afraid of being criticized by the other youngsters. He said that his bedroom window wasn't opened at night all winter because his grandmother with him he lived thought that the night air was not good for children. "The home and school must cooperate in these matters and one must know what the other is doing," continued Miss Brady.

Avoid Falsehoods
"Another case in which they must cooperate is in teaching truthfulness. Children can hardly be expected to tell the truth in school when they hear their parents tell lies in the home." The matter of sending excuses for a pupil's absence from school was given as an example. "Very frequently a parent will sign an excuse stating that the child was sick when that was not the real reason for his absence."

Social science is now taught in school to show pupils the work of the postman, the milk-man, and other public servants. Visits are made to the post office and the modern dairy plant to acquaint the class with methods used to promote public service and health. This teaches the child to appreciate the work of public servants.

"One important factor in developing a child's personality is teaching him to get along with others. This is started as early as the kindergarten and first grade when one must wait his turn in games or in working at a project at a sand table. No one likes to see a youngster grow up to be cynical, sarcastic and lacking respect for others. Parents and teachers must work together in order to prevent this."

Too much emphasis is being placed today on what men and women seem to be and common questions asked are: "How much salary does he make?" "What kind of a car does he drive?" and "In what part of town does he live?" Children hear these questions discussed in the home and form their opinions accordingly. It is more important to know what a person is thinking, and questions that ought to be asked are: "What are his motives?" and "What are his ideals?" One should build up in the mind of the child that it is potent to be a good man or woman and a good citizen, one who is respected in the community. A person's life may be comparatively uneventful and still be a contribution to society."

Religion Needed
Miss Brady added that religion has a great influence on development of character and personality. "Although great progress has been made in science, it still can't substitute for religion," she continued. "There are many different ideas about religion, but in each case it is a searching for the divine and people find it in various ways. It is always the eternal God reaching down, and one of the best ways that this is shown is when a person

"REUNION IN VIENNA"

To judge the recent upheaval in Austria with any degree of accuracy one must have all the elements. And too many Americans look upon the furor raised in Teutonia with one blind eye.

Long before the name of Hitler was known beyond the precincts of the beer halls there rumbled through Central Europe a strong and determined proposal of unifying all the German tribes. This proposal was made evident through many sources.

It was more than fifteen years ago that American newspapermen were writing about the demonstrations they witnessed while standing on the curb of Vienna's famed Ringstrasse. These demonstrations consisting of orderly parades were aimed at acquainting the world and particularly the Austrian nation with the determination of its people to forming a union with Germany. They had no relation to the particular form of government prevailing at Berlin. Those who participated in them were likely willing to accept any Berlin government and looked upon the form of government as of secondary importance.

The Americans who observed those demonstrations so long ago were receiving a first-hand and never to be forgotten lesson in those deep and surging human emotions that, properly controlled and directed may be of immense benefit to humanity, but when thwarted, derided or suffocated are likely to erupt in vicious and violent form.

Look upon one of those demonstrations. Observe patiently and carefully every important thing. Jump not too quickly to the conclusions made by others. Remember that others may be speaking a parrot-learned lesson.

It is, say, about nine o'clock Sunday morning. Sunday is demonstration day in Europe. People have no time the rest of the week. They work in Europe.

Suddenly one hears that thrilling tramp, tramp, tramp of marching hosts. Down under the leafy bowers along the Ringstrasse come the marching thousands. Four hours later that same tramp, tramp tramp is going by, thousands upon thousands of men, perhaps a quarter of them war veterans, earnest men, men with honest and rugged faces scarred by the battle field or by industrial accidents, men in whose eyes is a determination nurtured by a soul-craving and fortified by the conviction that they are right and that they are denied through plots and conspiracies of others their very hearts' desire.

These are good men. You might see them on your own streets. There is nothing either savage or bloodthirsty about them. They believe in the home, the church, law, order and good behavior. They are not meddlesome. They do not want the battle field.

What do they want? What beating, persistent and hungry demand is pounding at their hearts?

The union with Germany was in fact the natural result of the hardships visited upon the beaten central powers twenty years ago, hardships purposely shaped to bring shame and humiliation upon a great people, a people so industrious, intelligent and energetic that even the mailed fists of the rest of the world cannot keep them down.

When Austria was divested of its former greatness and grandeur, when it was literally stripped to the bone and pushed out into a cold world the treaty makers forgot, if they ever knew, that they therefore created a situation which could not claim calm or rest but was bound to result in agitation in the eternal effort of men to climb back to a position of hope, dignity and pride.

The marching thousands in all these Ringstrasse demonstrations were supported in their convictions and conduct by the everlasting struggle in man to clutch his share of those things in life that may be classified under the word glory, but however named must be reckoned with always since they are present in all the better races of mankind and therefore must be dealt with as a matter of prime importance.

It is unfortunate that men when they consider certain rights or demands become so impatient in their desire for immediate success that they forget or overlook other matters that may be just as important. Just now most of the Austrian people care very little about individual freedom and less about the bulwarks we erect and stand guard over in order to preserve our form of liberty. Such things, they will tell you, can wait. If you truthfully seek to show them that they cannot wait they will reassure you calmly that the necessary liberty will come in due time, and that if it does not, if there will be but a choice between liberty and the sun they will sacrifice the former.

That Hitler's wily agents have stimulated at a thousand points this union must be freely conceded. But, it should be conceded with the same freedom they could not have accomplished their end without a strong and devout following among the common people of the Austrian nation, the peasants and workers as well as others.

We would blunder grievously to belittle the effect upon world events of Nazi plots but we would even blunder to a greater extent to shut our eyes tightly to plain and undeniable human characteristics, the unalterable fact that every nation worthy of survival craves a place in the sun,—that is honor, dignity and respect, and that when treaties or pacts are directly aimed at keeping any such nation in the shadows they become something more than an instrument of injustice.

They are an invitation to bloodshed.

NO CENSOR NEEDED

The American Institute of Public Opinion finds that 59 per cent of radio owners oppose government censorship of broadcasts and 41 per cent favor it. It is surprising that the majority is not greater. A people believing firmly in freedom of speech, press and assembly might well be expected to believe in freedom of screen and radio.

There are standards of decency and good taste which prevail among normal people and enable them to do their own censoring. Those standards should also enable program-makers to present acceptable programs without a censor's dictation.

There are also certain responsibilities that free people have for themselves. Parents who find their children being harmed by blood-curdling radio drama can do two things. They can write or telephone to the studio expressing their disapproval, and they can provide some better occupation for their children than the offensive program. They might explain to the children how the program offends and teach them to compare it with better programs. Even children are capable of developing taste and judgment.

If fine entertainment, truly amusing comedy, good drama and good music are presented, their sponsors will find a large and eager public. That has been the experience of producers of books, plays, movies and music. Why should it not be true of radio?

PLEASURE IN EUROPE

Newspaper correspondents and statesmen find it hard to guess what is going to happen in any country of Europe next week, or even tomorrow. But go to a travel agency and you will be able to learn with no delay, about a lot of "coming events across the Atlantic."

What is to become of Czechoslovakia? Is she about to lose her dearly won independence and become a vassal of Nazi Germany? No one knows. Yet the official Spa season opens at Karlovy Vary on April 1.

The political and financial situation in France is tense and threatening. Crisis follows crisis almost too rapidly even for the French to handle. But there are activities there undisturbed so far. The carnival will open on schedule at Clisson in Brittany and there will be international sailing regattas at Nice from April 5 to April 10.

These are only samples of the many fairs, races and other events continuing in Europe right through all the war threats, the jockeying for power, the rearmament, the financial crises, the trade problems. Is it a blessing that so much in life proceeds normally even in times of great stress, or would we settle critical problems more quickly if we were deprived of our amusements?

PASSIVE RESISTANCE

The real cause of the war in China, explains Dr. Francis Cho Min Wei, president of a native college in Wuchang, lay in the overdeveloped industries of Japan. Facing tariff barriers everywhere as a result of their persistent underselling, "the Japanese cast about for a land with rich natural resources and a large population to provide a ready and continuous market for their goods."

The Japanese imperialists may find, however, that they have reckoned without their customers. There was a considerable boycott of their goods in China before the present invasion, caused by Chinese resentment at previous invasions and aggressions. That boycott is naturally intensified now, and may continue long after Chinese resistance to the invading armies has vanished—a process which will evidently take some time yet.

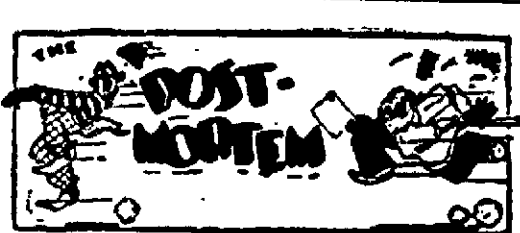

India, led by Gandhi, tried "passive resistance" against British rule, with slight success. China may yet accomplish, by passive resistance against Japan, what she could not do by active resistance.

All but three of this country's 26 national parks are open the year round and winter parks may be enjoyed in many of them. In some parks the snow lasts into the summer, permitting ski races on July 4.

Montreal was the capital of Canada from 1844 to 1849.

Disraeli, best known as a statesman, wrote a successful novel when he was 21.

Mary Queen of Scots became queen of Scotland when only a week old.

THE SUDDEN back-tracking on granting the Philippine Islands their independence has aroused considerable interest, particularly since only a few years ago everybody seemed so determined to give the islands their freedom. . . . the return of Pretty Boy McNutt started the back flip and members of high school debate teams, who were on the negative side of "Resolved: The Philippines Should Be Granted Immediate Independence" some years back when this was a favorite debate subject of high schools everywhere, can feel a little better. . . . the rest of us can wonder just what it is that. . . . it seems that the reason for suddenly switching the stand on giving the islands back to the natives is based on changed conditions in the orient. . . . meaning, of course, the way Japan has been cutting up around the far east. . . . but, as Boake Carter pointed out the other night, the Japanese intentions were well known BEFORE the legislation of 1934 was passed, since the Japs were already playing around in Manchukuo. . . . AND the Japanese were already taking pot shots at the Chinese when President Quezon came over here to plead for immediate independence. . . . in short, the situation is no different than before. . . . why not let the Philippines take care of themselves? . . . we're losing money on them every year, we have to maintain an expensive and otherwise unnecessary fleet in that part of the world because of them, and we lay ourselves wide open to war if we keep messing around with them over there. . . . Pretty Boy McNutt is just as hard to figure out as some other people in the New Deal. . . . If, as McNutt says, we'd be "quitters" to leave the Philippines now, so be it. . . . we'd be better off today if we had been "quitters" in the last war, if you call that quitting. . . .

THE IRISH EMIGRANT

Just a memory resurrected
Of a cottage on the turf
And a lad and aged woman
Plodding slowly towards the surf
And every step we plodded
Took me one more step away
From my home beside the sea shore
On far Donegal Bay.

With my poor old mother faltering
And her step infirm and slow
As she tried to bless and cheer me
Made it hard for me to go
For every step we plodded
Took me one more step away
From the playmates of my childhood
And my daddy, old and grey.

'Neath her waist of faded calico
Beat a mother's heart for me
As I left her in the gloaming
Near that far off Irish sea
And every step we plodded
Took me one more step away
From the scenes of happy childhood
And the paths I used to stray.

I saw her wipe a tear drop
With her gnarled and toil worn hand
And her lips moved — yet were silent
Only now I understand
She knew every step we plodded
Took me one more step away
From my home in good old Erin
We were parting for a while.

—Ezekiel Sodbuster

Tomorrow I must make that announcement.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

STANDARD CITIZENS

At heart he is a vagabond
Who wants to roam the seas,
But there is one of whom he's fond,
And whom he longs to please,
And so he curbs his wild desire,
His hidden hopes and dreams,
And stays beside his own home fire,
Contented with its gleams.

She is a peasant girl at heart,
Who never cares to be
Too far from the important art
Of domesticity;
But one who loves her likes to ride
Across untraveled space,
So, uncomplaining, at his side
She takes her joyful pace.

A tree is shaped by wind and sun,
As day by day it grows,
It bears a scar where rain has run;
The wind gives bitter blows.
At just the same a life is made
By all who pass our way,
For love is either peace and shade
Or tempest and dismay.

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Friday, March 16, 1928

Miss Lucille Kellner was elected president of the S.M.G. club and Miss Grace Brich was elected secretary and treasurer at the home of Miss Bruce Kier street, Menasha, at a business meeting yesterday.

An addition to Theda Clark Memorial hospital, to be used as a nurses' home and superintendent's quarters, is to be built at an estimated cost of $75,000 at Neenah. The new building is to be three stories high and will have accommodations for 34 nurses.

Mrs. Walter Fox, S. Pierce avenue, entertained the Thursday Bridge club Thursday afternoon at her home. Prizes were won by Mrs. Harry Cameron, Mrs. Robert Wood and Mrs. Dale Schuppener. The next meeting will be the home of Mrs. Vern Ames, 1211 E. Pacific street.

Mrs. W. P. Hagman was elected president of the Kaukauna Women's club at a meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. H. Copp. She will fill the unexpired term of Mrs. A. T. Hudson, who resigned recently. Other officers elected: first vice president, Mrs. F. W. Grogan; second vice president, Mrs. William M. Richardson.

25 YEARS AGO

Friday, March 21, 1913

Mr. and Mrs. William Van Nortwick were left for French Lick, Ind., for a visit of two weeks.

George Schuetter is home from the University of Wisconsin at Madison for a week's vacation.

Preliminary steps for the organization of a Y.M.C.A. in Appleton were taken at a mass-meeting in the armory last night.

Miss Constance Johnson, instructor at Hortonville High school, is spending her Easter vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Johnson, Alton street.

James H. Shannon has resigned his position as bookkeeper at Outagamie County bank to take a similar position with the Hotel Pfister at Milwaukee.

THE IRREDUCIBLE MINIMUM

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

OLD FOGIES DO NOT APPROVE?

From the northwest a reader writes that her 12-year-old daughter is subject to a condition (no matter what) which renders general anesthesia too hazardous. The girl has infected tonsils and several physicians have advised that the tonsils should be removed. However, each of the physicians has deplored the situation and declined to recommend the removal of the tonsils, fearing the effects of general anesthesia.

Pretty dumb medical service, I'm telling the world. Finally the mother heard about a newfangled method by which tonsils are removed without the risk of a general anesthetic and without the necessity of entering a hospital. By dint of research in the public prints she learned that the newfangled method is called diathermy, extirpation or electro-coagulation. With this information the mother went back to two of the physicians who had urged removal of the tonsils and warned against the serious risk involved.

At first the two doctors just couldn't comprehend what the lady was driving at. Sounded like a pipe dream to them. They both intimated it sounded that way. They dismissed the importunate client with the assurance that nothing can be done about it altho it would indeed be a blessing if the infected tonsils could be removed without the great risk general anesthesia and a major operation would entail.

Now the mother writes to me. I am sorry but I know of no physician in her community who is qualified to extirpate tonsils with diathermy. I can only tell her that I'd travel a thousand miles to one who can do so rather than submit to the unnecessary risk, hospitalization, discomfort and interference with eating that uniformly attend surgical tonsillectomy, if my tonsils had to be removed.

Diathermy extirpation of the tonsils is now "accepted" even by the Pooh-Bah of the A.M.A., who railed against it a few years ago. I imagine, because I had urged it on the public before the Pooh-Bah learned about it. When you meet a doctor or a specialist who says the method is "no good," "dangerous," "inefficient," etc., you may be reasonably sure the man has had no experience with it and no opportunity to observe the method in skilled hands.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Butter, Please
Which is better for cooking purposes, butter, lard or vegetable oil products? (Mrs. L. S.)

Answer—If it's all the same to you I'd prefer butter for mine, the food cooked with vegetable oil or lard is quite as nourishing, digestible and as appetizing.

Boric Acid Mouth Wash
I use your formula for boric acid mouth wash and like it very much. Is it all right to dip my toothbrush in it? Is it harmful if used too often or every day? (G. L. C.)

Answer—Heaping teaspoonful boric acid dissolved in pint of boiled water. This is mildly antiseptic, non-irritating, for use as eye drops or eyewash or for mouth wash or gargle. It is harmless if used daily. I do not understand about the toothbrush. It is cheap enough to make a little fresh solution every day.

Behind the Ears

For prevention of soreness bows of the ears from spectacle bows, let me suggest slipping a piece of fine rubber tube over the part of the bow that touches ear or head.

—tubing such as is used for stems for artificial flowers.
Answer—Thank you.

Your Birthday

"PISCES"

If March 19 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:15 to 11:15 a. m., from 1:15 to 3:15 p. m., and from 7:15 to 9:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:15 to 9:15 a. m., from 5:15 to 7:15 p. m., and from 9:15 to 11:15 p. m.

You may feel unusually vigorous this day, convincing you that you have the power to accomplish anything you undertake. There may be a tendency to use glowing terms in describing ordinary events, so it might be well to weigh carefully some of the things told to you this day. Enthusiasm is liable to carry some imaginations to such optimistic heights, that the boundary line of veracity may be lost sight of. Do not be tempted to steal anyone's thunder this day, and don't allow anyone to steal yours. Do well whatever you have to do this day, and finish it off, if possible, with a touch of technique that will be distinctively expressive of your own personality. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who have fallen in love, should let well enough alone this day, and avoid trying any experiment that might be dangerous to existing harmonious conditions.

If a woman and March 19 is your birthday, beware of jealousy. Many a person born on this date, has had his life wrecked by it. You ought to be capable of creating a good impression on anyone you wish to, and through a magnetic personality win many friends. Your financial prospects appear to be very bright. Through social welfare, missionary or publicity work, teaching, acting or selling your earnings probably will be large. Fortune in all likelihood will favor you in your selection of a husband.

The child born on March 19 should be taught to be observant, obedient and methodical. Generally of a rather reckless disposition, the importance of exercising ordinary caution must be impressed upon this youngster. The future is full of bright hopes that ought to culminate in many gratifying realizations.

If a man and March 19 is your natal day, be very careful not to discard old tried friends for new ones, in trying to further your commercial, political, social or other ambitions. As a geologist, real estate or insurance agent, engineer, inventor, writer, actor, artist, doctor or lawyer you may be fully justified in having great expectations.

Seen and Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—If you were to wander unannounced into the lower foyer of the Majestic theater you would come upon this scene: Lupe Velez in slacks and a tight blue sweater; Libby Holman wearing smoked glasses; Clifton Webb seated at a gadget that is supposed to be a breakfast table but in reality is something the Shuberts thought up; Rex O'Malley in a leather overcoat with slide vents making him look like a modern Robin Hood, and a number of other people including a director, a press-agent, and a house manager.

Most of them are rehearsing a scene from a new Shubert play, Miss Holman is across the table from Mr. Webb. . . . "Let's take that scene where the letter comes in," suggests the director. . . . "Okay," replies Miss Holman. . . . She withdraws an imaginary letter from her bosom, then stops. . . . "What a dreary place to keep a letter," she says to the director. "Don't I have a pocket in my apron, or something?"

"Of course, darling, of course, and we must make it large enough so that the letter doesn't fall out." After the scene Miss Velez comes over and Rex O'Malley puts his arms around her. . . . "Careful, Rex," calls the director, "Lupe once killed a man for doing that, didn't you, Lupe-de-doo?" . . . "Not for putting his arms around me, darling, for taking them away." . . . Then Lupe leans over and bites the director so hard on the arm that he shrieks at the top of his voice. "Confound you, Lupe!" . . . The fiery enchielada is certainly in top form. . . . She tucks her sweater into her slacks, which are dove grey with a zipper up the side, and swaggers up to the director: "Well, what's holding us up, big boy?"

"Come on, everybody," he calls. . . . Wherefore Miss Holman still wearing the smoked-glasses altho it is twilight down there, and O'Malley sit down at the "breakfast table." . . . Webb and Lupe wander off into the backstage and stare into a fireplace which had either a real fire or a very good imitation. I couldn't tell which.

"Now, begin with the letter," says the director hopefully. But at that moment a chauffeur with a smart cap came downstairs and glanced significantly at the players. . . . "How long can you rehearse, Lupe?" the director calls. . . . "Five o'clock," she says. . . . "It's that now," he tells her. . . . "Where do we rehearse tonight?" Miss Holman wants to know. . . . "At the Shubert office, 8 o'clock. Be there, everybody."

Miss Holman goes out and is driven away in her limousine. . . . Lupe goes out and gets into a cab. . . . Webb and O'Malley and the rest pile into automobiles. . . . I shove off in the direction of Broadway, walking.

A Bystander In Washington

This is the second of two articles explaining the Army War College and what it does.

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Already the "bright minds" in the army and navy are studying the Spanish civil war, the Japan-China "incident" and the Italo-Ethiopian campaign in preparation for the next war—when and if it comes.

The studies are going quietly on in the Army and Navy War Colleges where chosen officers of the two branches of national defense prepare for advancement to the higher grades.

Their job is to study the latest methods of war, and they leave virtually nothing out that may have a bearing. Here is a part of the mission of the Army War College in Washington, which will help to explain the purpose also of the navy college:

"To train officers for the conduct of field operations of the army and high echelons; and to instruct in those political, economic and social matters which influence the conduct of war.

"To train officers for joint operations of the army and navy."

Navy Has One, Too

The Navy War College at Newport, R. I., and the War College here, work cooperatively. Of the 95 officers now at the Army War College, 88 are from the army, five from the navy and two from the marine corps. A corresponding army group attends the naval college.

The students at the army college are segregated into committees, each of which is assigned several "directives"—problems—to work out during the 10 months course. The exact nature of the "directives" is kept a school secret. It is a fair surmise from the broad purpose of the school that the subjects include not only preparation of plans for specific types of war, but such things as management of our own civil populations in event they are driven to panic by armed invasion, as well as the handling of matters like the "draft riots" such as broke out in New York during the Civil war.

Civilian Lecturers

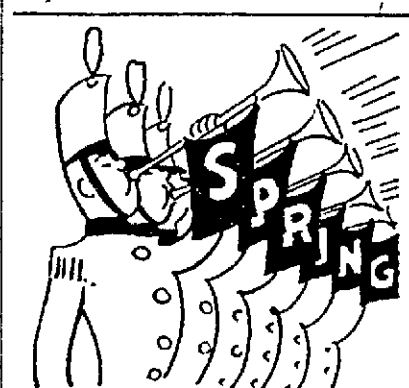

Not only does the study include strictly American questions; the strength and weaknesses of various possible enemy nations are surveyed. The officers have access to secret maps and other information not available elsewhere. The college works in cooperation with the State Department and other government agencies.

Among civilian lecturers are Bernard M. Baruch, financier, head of the War Industries Board; Dr. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Arctic explorer; John P. Frey, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, himself a high-ranking reserve officer; and many others, usually about 85 a year.

The Army War College is strictly a gentlemen's school. The officers come to Washington with their families; their pay goes right on; extensive recreational facilities are provided. In spite of the deadly serious nature of their study, life for them is not so tough. But the military looks upon the business with a serious eye. Here is what U. S. soldier No. 1, Gen. John J. Pershing, says of the training:

"Without the least disparagement of the services of the great body of scientific, professional and business men who hold responsible positions during that (World war) emergency, it is only justice to say that, in all essential respects, the directive genius, almost without exception, was the educated soldier."

Transatlantic telephone calls between Canada and countries in Europe and Africa averaged about seven a day during 1937, increasing 70 per cent over 1936.

Lawrence Theater Gives Effective Performance Of George Kaufman Play

BY NELL CHAMBERLAIN

WHAT WAS UNDOUBTEDLY the best thing in stage entertainment that the Lawrence College Theater has done in several years played to a fair-sized audience last night at Lawrence Memorial chapel when an all-college cast presented "First Lady" by Katherine Dayton and George S. Kaufman. Salted with insidious and biting wit, the play fulfilled every bit of the possibilities of a plot centering around a famous feud between two leading feminine figures in capitol society in Washington. Eric Volkert directed the production which will be repeated tonight.

The unusually large cast, 30 in all, was exceptionally well chosen and worked admirably together to give a smooth, finished performance. Because the play depends so much on lines for its effect, it would have been easy to disrupt the entire tempo and mood of the piece by poor timing or wrong emphasis, but each member of the cast came through in brilliant style to give every line its due. The result was a performance of which the effort was worth the effort.

It would be hard in such a play as "First Lady" to pick out one part and play it up as the star role, for there are many excellent parts and last night's cast did full justice to every one. Outstanding scenes, however, were those between the two rivals in the first and third acts, the second act curtain scene and the opening scene of the second act. Jabbing, cutting remarks characterized the scenes between the two rivals. The role of Carter Hubbard was well played by Charles Koerber, Milwaukee, interpreting the part as a very dull and slightly bewildered jurist with a bad stomach.

Appear in Minor Roles

Charming bits were provided by Beth McAllister, Marquette, and Mary Voelck, Appleton, as wives of well known figures in Washington, while Howard Lehner, Oconto Falls, gave a consistently good performance as Charles, the Wayne butler. Other minor roles which offered opportunity for some excellent character sketches were handled expertly by James Morrow, Appleton, as George Mason; Mary Zerbel, Iron River, Mich., as a baroness; Florence Perry, Appleton, as a congressman's wife; Betty Lou Scandling, South Bend, Ind., as her friend; Chester Creider, La Grange, Ill., as Senator Ortega; Spencer Johnson, Mayville, as M. Protosescu; Robert Arndt, Wauwatosa, as M. Pavitch; Glen Lockery, Rosholt, as a foreigner; John Bachman, Park, Ill., as Mr. Probst; Barbara Plank, Manitowish, as Mrs. Probst; Ray Lutger, Chicago, as a general; Kay Tuchscherer, Menasha, as Mrs. Davenport; Bill Hirst, Wauwatosa, as Bleecker; Selden Spencer, Williams Bay, as James Fleming; Wesley Perschbacher, West Bend, as Herbert Sedgwick; and Howard O'Donnell, Milwaukee, as a butler.

Plays Character Role

Monica Worsley, Racine, as Belle Hardwicke, almost ran away with the show with her interpretation of a seasoned veteran of several administrations who knows all the ins and outs of Washington intrigue but still realizes it's the breath of life to her. Her strident voice and "take it or leave it" manner created a character which made a hit immediately with the audience, and she remained in character throughout the play.

Betty Jane Winans, Glen Ellyn, Ill., was a charming and always entertaining Emmy Paige, naive niece of Lucy Wayne, whose southern accent and habit of talking in italics were very effective. Margaret Hendrickson, Hinsdale, Ill., was a thoroughly capable and level-headed social secretary to Lucy Wayne, and June Selvy, Green Bay, gave a fine characterization of Mrs. Creevy, leader of the delegation from the Women's Peace, Purity and Patriotism league who never fails to impress everyone she meets with the fact that here are "two million women behind her."

Among the male roles outstanding performances were given by Jack Brand, Chicago, as Stephen Wayne, secretary of state, Joseph Koffend, Appleton, as Ellsworth T. Ganning, publisher of a chain of newspapers, and Jack Bodilly,

STUDENT ACTRESSES VISIT MAYOR'S WIFE

Shown here interviewing Appleton's first lady, Mrs. John Goodland, center, wife of the mayor, are two members of the cast of the Lawrence college play, "First Lady," which was presented last night and will be repeated tonight at Lawrence Memorial chapel. At the left is Miss Betty Bossier, Appleton, who plays the part of Irene Hibbard, wife of a supreme court justice, in the production, and at the right is Miss Betty Johnson, Mayville, Wis., who is cast as the wife of Stephen Wayne, secretary of state.

Dances, Card Parties are Features of Appleton's St. Patrick's Day Observance

APPLETON celebrated St. Patrick's day in various ways yesterday, a number of parties and programs having been planned especially for the occasion. Forty couples attended a dancing party given by Appleton Elk lodge. Novelty dances were the order of the evening, and St. Patrick favors were given the guests. Lee Feavel was chairman of the event and his committee included Nathan Bloomer, Cornelius Riggles, Karel Richmond, Harold Finger, Peter DeLain, A. J. Gerhart, Joseph Hantschel, George Acker, Appleton; Alvin Pich, Seymour; A. L. Severance, New London, and Dr. W. E. Archer, Dale. The next party will be Saturday, April 23.

Shamrock dances in which the couples matched parts of shamrock to find partners, a promenade waltz and a lemon dance were features of the program at the Manhattan club dance last night at the American Legion building. Forty-two couples were present. Green and white decorations were used on the punch table and the dancers wore shamrocks or green carnations. The committee in charge included Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Wilson, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Royal Gooding; Neenah; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Webb; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Boelter and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bertram.

Twenty-three tables of cards were in play at the St. Patrick's day card party sponsored by Court Ave. Maria. Catholic Daughters of America. Thursday night at Conway hotel.

News of Spring Shoes

The trend this Spring to Patents, Gabardines, and Tan Calfskins is surely well justified, as they are so admirably adapted to the colorful new mode . . . to coats . . . to suits . . . and to frocks.

TO CONFIRM CLASS

The annual visitation of the Rt. Rev. Harwood Sturtevant, above, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Fond du Lac, to All Saints Episcopal church will take place Sunday. Bishop Sturtevant will confirm a class of 10 persons at the 11 o'clock service.

Bishop Will Give Sermon Here Sunday

THE Rt. Rev. Harwood Sturtevant, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Fond du Lac, will make his annual visitation to All Saints Episcopal church Sunday to confirm a class and give a sermon at the 11 o'clock service. In his capacity as leader of the diocese, Bishop Sturtevant visits each parish in his diocese annually to examine the records, perform the episcopal function of confirmation and preach a sermon.

The class of confirmands Sunday will include W. R. Fleming, Mrs. John Harvey, Miss Althea Coy, Sidna Burns, Laura Belle DeLong, June Kuehnst, Rose Ann Giesinger, Nancy Seaborne, Betty Schmitz and Mary Wells. Bishop Sturtevant is a former Appleton resident, having been bishop coadjutor of the diocese before becoming bishop about 41 years ago.

Mrs. Nora Krueger, 1320 N. Appleton street, entertained the Social Welfare circle of St. John Evangelical and Reformed church at her home Thursday afternoon. Fourteen members were present. The circle is making draperies for the sub auditorium of the church. Announcement was made that the Women's Union birthday party planned for March 31 has been postponed indefinitely. The next meeting will be April 21 at the home of Mrs. Charles Hartsworm, 531 N. Garfield street.

Three hundred persons attended the Lenten service at First Methodist Episcopal church last night following a friendship supper at the church. Dr. Harry C. Culver, pastor, spoke on "The Book of Genesis." Next Thursday the sermon theme will be "The Bible before it was Written."

Mrs. Thomas N. Barrows, 211 S. Union street, will be hostess to the College Women's Forum of First Congregational church at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at her home.

Collegians Prepare for Junior Prom

MEMBERS of the decoration committee for Lawrence college's first annual junior prom, to be held next Friday, March 25, at the Alexander gymnasium, will gather at the gymnasium tomorrow afternoon to begin their work of transforming the building into a Manhattan skyscraper night club. Tuesday afternoon student artists will begin painting the skyscraper skyline which will decorate the walls of the gymnasium.

Directing the large number of students who are helping prepare for the party are Robert Stocker, Rockford, Ill., acting social chairman; John Schmelein, Neenah, ex-social chairman; Seidon Spencer, Williams Bay, Wis., Tom Gettelman, Wauwatosa, and Miss June Selvy, Green Bay.

The Lawrence Women's association entertained at a St. Patrick's day tea Thursday afternoon at Russell Sage hall for all students and faculty members. Miss Dorothy Waples and Miss Edna Wiegand of the faculty poured, and three Appleton girls, the Misses Mary and Jean Koffend and Jean Lewis, acted as hostesses. The girls who served were the Misses Gay Patterson, Oak Park; Dorothy Stubbs, Ruth Gray and Jean Ross, Chicago; Mona Quell, Barbara Rounds and Mary Young, Appleton; Marjorie Wilson, Elmhurst, Ill.; and Ellen Mees, Marion.

Staff members of the Lawrentian, Lawrence college weekly publication, and their date's, will have their first annual party Saturday night at the old gymnasium. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Du Shane have been asked to chaperon, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Troyer have been invited as guests. Photograph records will provide music for dancing.

Appleton Couple to Leave Saturday on 3-Week Trip to South

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Shepherd, 922 E. College avenue, will leave Saturday morning for a 3-week trip to the south. They will visit Mrs. Shepherd's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Johnston, in St. Louis, Mo., and from there will go on to New Orleans and Biloxi. On their return they will visit Mr. Shepherd's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Shepherd, Sr., in Kansas City, Mo.

Jolly Nine Club Meets With Mrs. Otto Kasten

Mrs. Otto Kasten was hostess to the Jolly Nine club Thursday afternoon at her home on N. Union street. Schafkopf was played, with prizes going to Mrs. Grover Wiegand, Mrs. Victor Hartzheim, Mrs. Henry Strutz and Mrs. George Wiegand, Menasha. Mrs. Hartzheim and Miss Viola Salm were guests. The club's next meeting will be in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Herbert Yandre, Freedom road.

Mrs. William Pickett, E. Circle street, was hostess to her contract bridge club at a luncheon and bridge party Thursday afternoon at the Hearthstone Tea room. Honors at the game went to Mrs. Ole Jorgensen and Mrs. William Daniel, both of Neenah. Mrs. Clarence Bredendick will entertain the club in two weeks at her home in Neenah.

Deaths from lightning are comparatively rare, averaging only about 400 a year for the entire United States. Nine-tenths of the property damage from lightning occurs in rural districts.

Invited as guests. Photograph records will provide music for dancing.

Appleton Delegation To Attend State D. A. R. Convention at Madison

DAUGHTERS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION from all corners of the state will be Madison-bound this weekend to attend the society's state convention, which opens in the state capital Sunday afternoon and continues through Tuesday.

Appleton's delegates are Mrs. L. M. Howser, regent of the local chapter, Mrs. W. R. Chaloner, Mrs. E. L. Bolton and Mrs. L. E. Pease. Alternates are Mrs. E. V. Werner, Mrs. H. W. Russell, Mrs. F. V. Heinemann, Mrs. Grant Phillips, Mrs. George Werner, Mrs. J. H. Farley, Mrs. Lacey Horton, Mrs. W. S. Mason, Mrs. Joseph Wedgwood and Mrs. F. A. W. Hammond.

First of the convention activities is the tea which will be given Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. A. Harper, 520 N. Pinckney street, Madison, in honor of Mrs. William A. Becker, Summit, N. J., president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and other national officers. This will be followed at 7:30 Sunday evening by a dinner for the Wisconsin State Officers' club at the Hotel Loraine, convention headquarters.

Registration will begin at 9:30 Monday morning and will be followed at 10:30 by a meeting of the state board, the state chairman and chapter regents in the Pompeian room of the hotel.

Mrs. W. Z. Stuart, Neenah, state regent of the society, will be in charge of the luncheon Monday noon. Mrs. William Pouch, New York City, national chairman of junior membership, will be the guest of honor at the junior group luncheon to be held at the same time.

The Monday afternoon session will open at 2 o'clock, with Mrs. Stuart presiding. The Rev. Francis J. Bloodgood will give the invocation, and Mrs. James G. Fuller, regent of John Bell chapter of the D. A. R. Madison, will extend greetings to the visitors. Mrs. Stuart will introduce the distinguished guests, Mrs. Becker, Mrs. Pouch, Mrs. George Baxter Averill, Milwaukee, vice president general, Mrs. Julian G. Goodhue, Chicago, historian general, and Miss Ruth Bradley Sheldon, state regent of the Philippine Islands, all of whom will talk briefly.

Mrs. Goodhue to Speak
After reports by Mrs. Stuart and Mrs. Frank J. Hall, state treasurer, Mrs. Goodhue will address the convention.

Later in the afternoon a group of Madison women, all of whom were born in foreign countries, will present an Americanism skit under the auspices of the Neighborhood House. Mrs. Averill will then talk on the D. A. R. good citizenship pilgrimage for high school girls conducted annually by the organization.

The drawing for the 1938 "pilgrim" will take place under the supervision of the state department of education following Mrs. Averill's address.

Mrs. Becker will be the speaker at the state conference dinner at 6:30 Monday evening. Her subject will be "Our Heritage." The Rev. Alfred Wilson Swan, Madison, will give the invocation.

The Tuesday morning session of the rally will open at 8 o'clock with a breakfast for chapter historians, chapter chairmen of historical research, chapter regents and other interested members.

Historical Talks
The Rev. Edwin O. Kennedy will give the invocation at the business session which will begin at 9:30 Tuesday morning. The principal speakers will be Dr. Joseph Schaefer, superintendent of the state historical society, who will talk on "Wisconsin's Contribution to the Northwest Territory" and Miss Cornelia Van Koo, director of nurses in the state department of public health, whose subject will be "The Indian in Wisconsin."

Brief reports will be given at the luncheon for chapter regents Tuesday noon, which will be followed at 2 o'clock by a trip to the Forest Products Laboratory, where Arthur G. Koehler will address the group on "The Lindbergh Ladder." Mr. Koehler, who is in charge of silvicultural relations at the laboratory, played an important part in the government prosecution of Bruno Hauptmann, convicted slayer of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

Wickesberg Named Head Of DeMolay

ALBERT Wickesberg, Jr., was reelected master counselor of John F. Rose chapter, Order of DeMolay, at the quarterly election held last night at Masonic temple. Douglas White was again named senior counselor and Harwood Orison was returned to office as junior counselor.

The initiatory degree was conferred on Robert Bohn, Douglas Marshall, Donald and Carlton Powers and Ben Rohan Jr. Announcement was made of devotional Sunday to be observed Sunday at Memorial Presbyterian church when DeMolay members and Masons will attend the morning service. John Goodrich and Frank Hammer, Sr., were in charge of arrangements. The chapter basketball team will send an application to compete in the invitational meeting at Waukesha April 8 and 9. The next meeting will be March 31.

Plans for an open card party to be held March 24 with Mrs. Adora Hauer as chairman and Mrs. Josephine Yohr and Mrs. Mary Kaufman as assistants were made at the meeting of Women of the Moose Thursday night at Moose hall. A joint party with the men will be held March 29 when Mrs. Hulda Kunitz will have charge of the lunch and Mrs. Julia Foreman of cards. Mrs. Jack Sealy reported that five members are ready for initiation. Mrs. Marie Cavert gave the quarterly publicity report and Mrs. Foreman announced that 10 gifts have been sent to men and 10 to women at Moosehaven.

A program in honor of St. Patrick's day was given after the meeting, including the history of St. Patrick by Mrs. Foreman, a poem "Irish Philosophy" by Mrs. Cavert and "The Little Green Shamrock" by Mrs. Mary Zuehlke. Miss Ruth Wolf played piano variations of "The Wearing of the Green." The program closed with the entire group singing "Mooseheart, the Happiest." Standing committee chairmen met before the chapter meeting and Mrs. Zuehlke, regent, outlined the national contest among committee chairmen for the best work of the year.

Appleton Masons will meet at 6 o'clock tonight at Masonic temple to go to Green Bay for the conferring of the master Mason degree by Washington lodge of Green Bay. A social hour will follow the meeting.

Appleton Commandery, Knights Templar, will meet Saturday afternoon at the temple from where the members will go to Manitowish for the annual inspection of the commandery there.

The rank of page was conferred on two candidates, W. F. Fraser and Walter Engleman, at the meeting of Knights of Pythias Thursday night at Odd Fellow hall.

Plans were made to attend the diamond jubilee celebration of the Order of Knights of Pythias April 25 at the Milwaukee auditorium, when supreme officers of the lodge will be present to conduct initiation, and announcement was made of the open card party the Pythian Sisters will sponsor next Monday at Odd Fellow hall.

Appleton Men Will be

Guests at College Event

George A. Schmidt, 423 W. Prospect avenue, and Daniel P. Steinberg, 523 N. Durkee street, will be the guests of their daughters, Miss Agatha Schmidt and Miss Mary Kay Steinberg at the first Dad's day to be held at Mount Mary college, Milwaukee, Sunday, March 20. Miss Steinberg, who will give her senior piano recital at the college Sunday, April 3, will be one of the hostesses at Sunday's event, and another Appleton girl, Miss Jo Ann Konrad, is on the invitation committee. Talks at the noon dinner for fathers and daughters will be given by President Edward A. Fitzpatrick, the Revs. Celestine Bille, O. M. Cap., Paul Schaffel and Sylvester Piotrowski.

Insists on Hearing For Independence Bill

Washington — Representative O'Malley (D-Wis.) said today unless his bill to give the Philippines immediate independence received a hearing before the end of this month, he would attempt to force consideration.

"I meant exactly what I said about freeing the Philippines," O'Malley declared. "I have been very patient in waiting for a hearing on my bill, but I am not going to let anyone stall me off until congress adjourns."

In a broadcast Wednesday night O'Malley criticized High Commissioner Paul V. McNutt for advocating continuance of American sovereignty in the Philippines.

State Recognizes Union Formed at Wall Paper Mill

Approves Union Here, but Refuses Recognition to Hatten Employees

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) Madison—Voyta Wrasben, chairman of the state labor board, announced actions of the board today in two matters affecting unions in Appleton, Neenah and New London. The board announced that it has denied the application for listing of the Hatten Employees association, New London, an independent group, while it has approved the application of an Appleton-Neenah independent union, the Wall Paper Workers Union of the Fox River Valley, consisting of wall paper workers of the Kimberly-Clark corporation. The men affected by this recognition are about 110 employees in the Atlas mill in Appleton and the Kimmark mill at Neenah.

Under the law independent unions, to be recognized as legitimate labor organizations, must prove to the state board that they have no connection with the employer. The law outlaws "company unions."

The board did not elaborate on its actions.

Telegrams announcing the decisions were dispatched to both groups. President of the Neenah union is George Ritten of Appleton. Ritten's application for listing by the state board was opposed in Appleton at a hearing last month by the United Wallpaper Craftsmen, an A. F. of L. affiliate.

The board also announced today that it would withhold further action in the threatened strike of the carpenters union at the Hatten plant at New London pending a report of its special mediator, Walter Kwapi, who is holding a conference with union leaders and employers in New London this afternoon.

If a settlement is not reached, J. K. Kyle, board secretary will visit New London personally, he has indicated.

The board also announced the appointment of George W. Hall of LaCrosse, as a member of the Wisconsin labor committee which will assist the board in enforcement of the new labor relations act.

Hall will be a member of the division representing the federation of labor. Other committee members, including those who represent the Committee for Industrial Organization, were appointed last month.

Hall is secretary of the LaCrosse local of the Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers union and an organizer for the LaCrosse Trades and Labor Council.

Authorize $5,300 In New Building And Improvements

Five Permits for Construction Work Granted By Inspector

New building and improvements in Appleton estimated to cost $5,300 was authorized by the city building inspector today. Permits included one for a new home, one to remodel a store front one for a garage and two for residential remodeling.

Albert Vogel was given a permit to construct a new dwelling, 26 by 30 feet, at 628 W. Winnebago street. A garage, 20 by 22 feet, also will be erected. The home will be of frame construction with brick veneer and is estimated to cost $4,000.

A permit to remodel the front of his store at 302 E. College avenue was issued to Arthur Jensen. Glass and metal will be used in the remodeling work. Cost of the improvement is estimated at $500.

Joseph A. Kohl, 407 W. Wisconsin avenue, was given a permit to build two dormers and an outside stairway on his home. Cost is estimated at $500.

Vergil Wydeven, 1435 E. Gunn street, was given a permit to add to his home and construct a garage, 18 by 10 feet at a cost of $200. A permit to build an open stairway in his home was given to Henry Koester, 913 W. Spring street. Cost of the improvement is estimated at $100.

Awaits Sentence On Vice Charges

New London Woman Pleads Guilty to Four Counts of Adultery

Waupaca—Mrs. Margaret Buss, New London, is awaiting sentence in circuit court after pleading guilty to four counts of adultery when she appeared Wednesday in justice court of Justice of the Peace S. W. Johnson.

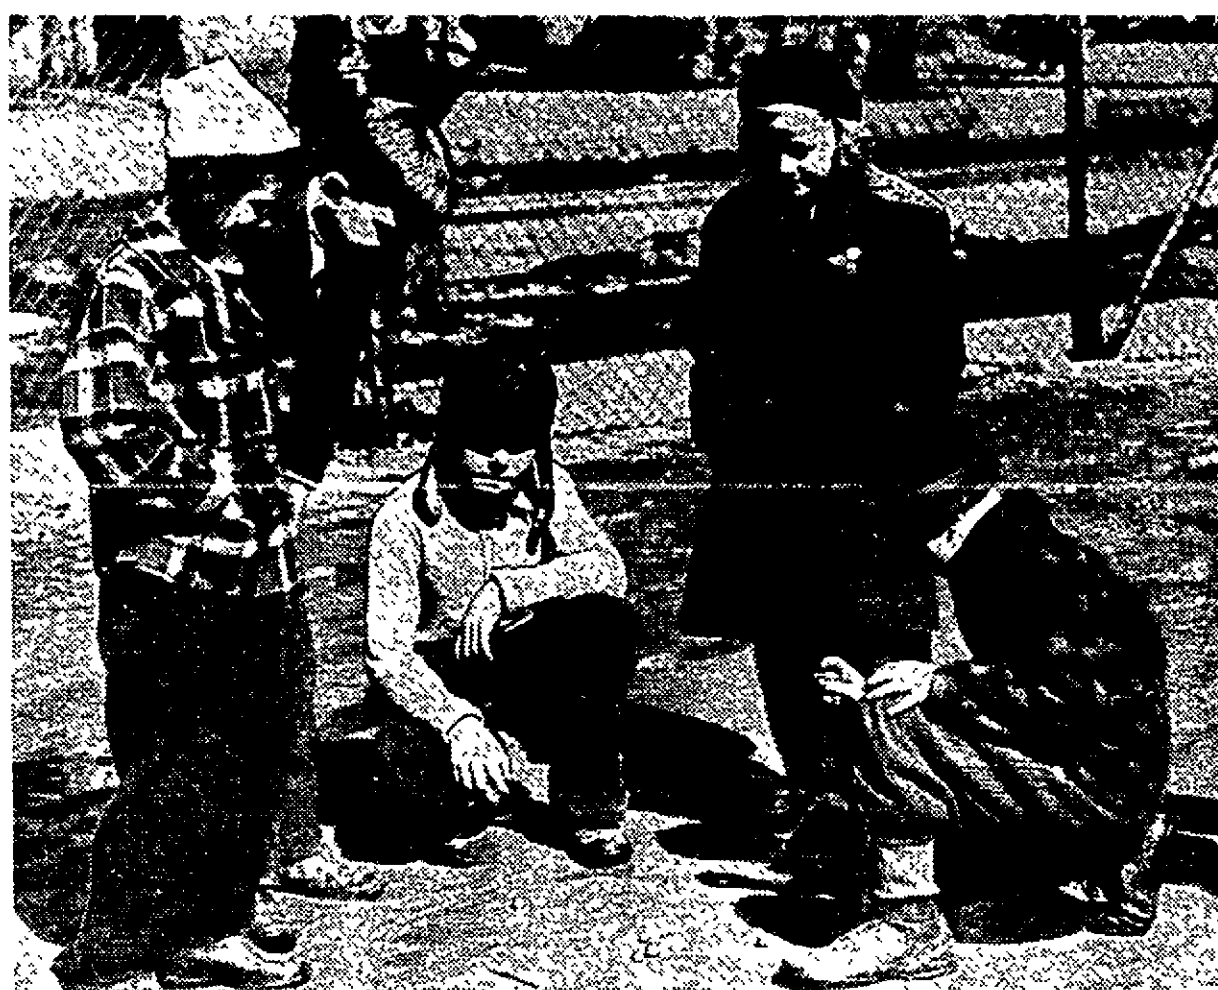

Lloyd Hidde, New London, who also appeared in court Wednesday, pleaded guilty of statutory rape and not guilty of adultery. He was bound over to circuit court for sentence on the first count and preliminary hearing on the second was set for March 23. Hidde was released on bond of $1,500.

Ernest McAndrews, New London, who also was charged with statutory rape, pleaded not guilty and preliminary hearing was set for April 1. He is being held in lieu of $2,000 bond.

Lutheran Aid State Committee Will Meet

The executive committee of the Wisconsin Federation of the Aid Association for Lutherans will meet in the home office here tomorrow. Dates for the annual convention which will be held in Milwaukee this summer will be set.

MARBLES, ROLLER SKATING BACK IN CITY SCENE

Appleton school children are just as glad as anyone else that spring is just over the hill, for it means the nearing of summer vacation. With the advent of warm weather, the children have forgotten snowballs and skiing for such activities as marbles and roller skating. The two pictures above show students at St. Joseph's school having fun in the sunlight.

In the top picture, the group interested in a game of marbles includes, from left to right, Marilyn Jean Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Long, 115 S. Walnut street; Lloyd Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Miller, 227 S. Walter avenue; Wayne Krause, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Krause, 126 S. Telulah avenue; Frances Kools, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kools, 516 N. Tonka street; and Floyd Ulmen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ulmen, 205 S. Walter avenue.

The three youths setting out for a spin on roller skates, starting from the left, are Kenneth Schiltz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Justin Schiltz, 626 W. Eighth street; Theodore Lorenz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted C. Lorenz, 38 N. Sherman Place; and Donald Knuij, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Knuij, 826 W. Elsie street. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Robins Return, Restless Moods Come, Sun's Heat Strengthens-It's Spring

BY DON ANDERSON

A stenographer looked out a window in an Appleton office building yesterday and said fretfully, "Gee, I wish I could take the rest of the day off."

An Appleton high school student demolished a fresh strawberry sundae on a drug store counter. A robin sat in a tree on Lawrence street, figuring out where to build this year. Sun worshippers clustered in front of the First National bank. A young paper mill engineer bought a new topcoat.

You can look around you and find any number of signs of spring as Appleton stirs from its winter lethargy and takes a deep breath of earthy air.

Snow, which was clean and bountiful a few weeks ago, now lies in ugly humps against buildings or in dirty, drooping banks beside walks and streets. Rubbers and galoshes are losing their prestige. Farmers are calling the employment office for workers to help cultivate fields.

Street Corner Politics People tarry at sunny corners and talk politics. The warm air and blue skies release vagrant thoughts of fishing and swimming and baseball. "When are you going to take your vacation?" somebody asks. "What shall it be this year, you ask yourself, an auto trip or a quiet haven on a lake?"

New cars are suddenly appearing on Appleton streets. A young fellow pulled down the top of his convertible coupe yesterday and drove around the city. Coats and pants don't match as often as they did in January and women's straw hats are multiplying.

A square box with perforations came to the Appleton post office this week, addressed to a rural route. If you had stood near it you would have heard a shuffling of tiny feet and the high-pitched murmur of baby chicks.

Symptoms of spring fever are prevalent in the city. If it were a dangerous disease and you were a doctor, you would pay attention when someone leaned back from his desk, stretched his arms, and said: "It's swell out today, isn't it?"

Needs Watching If he returned to his work with gusto, bending with furrowed brow over the ledger, you, the doctor, would feel relieved, knowing that the plague had not hit him. But if his pencil wavered again, very soon, and he gazed out the window at the sun streaming on the street, you would begin to get worried. And if he made a remark about "leaving a little early today," you would know that he was a victim and that he must be treated at once. You would whip out your thermometer, take his temperature, and immediately order him taken to a hospital. If spring fever were a dangerous disease.

The Spring Fever Clinic has reported that the best cure for the disease is self-treatment, like long walks, buying a new hat, calling up the girl friend, or building a boat. Signs of spring litter Appleton streets in the form of baby carriages, bareheaded people, placards for Rock beer, and new shoes. Boy scout troops are scheduling their summer camp trips.

Dam. Roller skating has started, dispositions are improving, they're giving away fraternity pins at Lawrence college, and business men are dusting off their golf bags.

Spring is coming and Appleton is happy about the whole thing.

Appleton Man Charged With Larceny as Bailee Melvin Puls, 30, 417 W. Commercial street, was charged with larceny as bailee in municipal court at Fond du Lac this morning. The case was adjourned for six months and bond was set at $500.

Puls was arrested here yesterday upon the request of Fond du Lac police. He is charged with converting for his own use some liquor he had in his possession on March 2, 1935 as an agent of E. C. Kurth, Fond du Lac.

Dr. Keller to Attend Optometrists Congress Dr. William G. Keller will leave tomorrow evening for Chicago to attend the Great Lakes Optometric Educational Congress. The 5-day session will start Sunday morning at the Morrison hotel.

Two Injured When Car Strikes Pole

Harry Welhouse and Peter Gerrits, Little Chute, Hurt in Accident

Harry Welhouse, Little Chute, and Peter Gerrits, 13, Little Chute, were injured and the car in which they were riding was demolished when it went off old Highway 41 near Rose Hill, just south of the Kaukauna city limits, about 1:15 this morning.

Both were cut and bruised and taken to St. Elizabeth hospital where x-rays have been taken to determine the extent of their injuries. The two men were found by A. M. Schmalz, Carl Hanson, Al Klamer and Herman Specht, Kaukauna.

The machine had crashed into a telephone pole and Welhouse was found pinned between the car and post. County Motorcycle Officer Jack Frenz investigated.

Schneider Names Three Candidates For Naval School

Appleton and Kaukauna Young Men Selected As Principals

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau Washington, D. C.—Congressman George J. Schneider today nominated Donald Frieders, 548 N. Clark street, Appleton; Robert Knox, 311 Doty street, Kaukauna, and Joseph A. Schroedel, Manitowoc, as his principal candidates for admission to the United States Naval academy at Annapolis in July.

Alternates to Frieders as named by Schneider are Raymond E. Smith, Green Bay, first alternate; Thomas J. Milhaupt, 710 E. Franklin street, Appleton, second alternate; Harold Neuerschinger, Green Bay, third alternate.

Alternates to Schroedel are designated as Robert C. Anderson, of Bailey's Harbor, first alternate; Robert Ferguson, Sturgeon Bay, second alternate; and Harold Barlow, Jr., Manitowoc, third alternate. Robert Knox, who now is attending his first year in Lawrence college, will be appointed "on certificate" without taking any mental examination, provided he meets the physical qualifications.

The alternates named will have a chance to enter Annapolis if the principal either fails in his mental or physical examination, or for any other reason is not available at the time of admission.

DEATHS

MRS. OLGA BRUSS

Mrs. Olga Bruss, 65, died at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at her farm home northeast of Brillion after a long illness.

Born July 10, 1872, in Maple Grove, Manitowoc county, she was married April 10, 1896, to Gustave Bruss. Her husband died in 1936. Survivors are four daughters, Leona, Milwaukee, Delia, at home; Mrs. Laura Christensen, Chicago; and Mrs. Emma Maile, Brillion; two sons, Albert and Walter, at home; two sisters, Mrs. Ida Wolf, Brillion; Mrs. Emma Baumgart, De Pere; five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home and at 1:30 at the Kasson Lutheran church in charge. Burial will be in Maple Grove cemetery.

MRS. EARL DONAVAN

Mrs. Earl Donovan, 52, former Appleton resident, died Wednesday evening at St. Paul, Minn., of pneumonia.

Born Oct. 4, 1885, in Appleton, she was formerly Laura Hayes. She left this city 23 years ago.

Survivors are two daughters, Alice, St. Paul, and Mrs. Raymond Bastyr, Hopkins, Minn.; one son, Howard, Excelsior, Minn.

The funeral will be held at 9:30 Saturday morning at Schommer Funeral home with services at 10 o'clock at St. Mary church. Burial will be in St. Mary cemetery. The body will be at the funeral home from 8 o'clock Saturday morning to the hour of services.

Suit Against Appleton Man Ordered Dismissed

Judge F. A. Geiger today in federal court at Milwaukee ordered dismissal of a suit brought by Mrs. Sylvester Bludau to collect $7,500 accident insurance held by her husband, a cigar salesman killed in a collision with a car driven by Ellsworth Clarke, Appleton, on April 24, 1934.

The court instructed the jury to return a verdict against the plaintiff, holding that Bludau had no right to drive on the wrong side of the road when the cars collided near New London, Wis.

New Election Is Ordered in Reich As Hitler Speaks

sider an "unredeemed" part of their war-lost territories, would be to help Poland or to obtain a truce card for bargaining with Poland over the Polish corridor.

"There is no doubt about it," said the Nazi spokesman, "the moment the Poles cross the Lithuanian frontier our troops will march into Memel."

No Further Comment

Then he lapsed into silence and declined to elaborate his remark. German government sources declined to discuss Memel but indicated they considered Poland's insistence on normal relations with Lithuania justified—meaning restoration of diplomatic relations, severed since Poland seized Wilno (Vilna), ancient Lithuanian capital, Oct. 9, 1920.

Germany lost Memel when the Lithuanian republic was created after the World war, and it is part of war lost territory which Germany wants back.

She has annexed Austria, in carrying on Fuehrer Hitler's hope for a United Germany embracing all German peoples, and the suddenly developing Polish crisis has brought Memel into the limelight.

DNR (official German news agency) in a Warsaw dispatch said it had been announced officially that Poland had taken precautionary military measures to meet the Lithuanian situation.

Envoys Active Envoys of Estonia and Latvia made sharp representations at Kaunas, Lithuanian capital, it was reported, urging the Lithuanian government to normalize relations with Poland.

The present crisis arose over a border clash in which a Polish border guard was killed, but ill feeling dates from the Polish seizure of Wilno.

Poland is reported to have made strong demands on Lithuania for a broad settlement of their troubles in a note of ultimatum character to be answered before tomorrow night.

As this newest tension in Europe developed quickly, the friendship of fascist Rome and Nazi Berlin appeared headed for an acid test, with the possibility of a German-Italian military alliance was in the offing.

As Fuehrer Hitler summoned the reichstag for this evening's address on world affairs and his annexation of Austria, it was learned on good authority a plan was developing definitely to liquidate the South Tyrol question.

Proposed Solution The South Tyrol area, once Austrian, became a part of Italy in 1919. Now, it was said, the Austro-German population there will be offered land or occupations in the Austrian province of Carinthia, thereby solving one of the problems of German minorities.

Hitler has said, "we are ready to show Italy our friendship and gratitude, whenever Italy should need it," and this has aroused speculation whether a regular German-Italian military alliance may be in prospect—(to supplement the already existing accord to consult each other in a common front toward European problems).

Whether or no, the situation was described here as the "acid test of the Berlin-Rome axis." (French secret service agents have reported large numbers of both Italian and German troops with insurgents in

71 Students are Entered in Music Contest Tomorrow

Lawrence Conservatory Offering $1,200 in Scholarship Prizes

Seventy-one high school seniors or 1937 graduates from Wisconsin and adjoining states will compete tomorrow in the music scholarship contest sponsored by the Lawrence Conservatory of Music.

Preliminary auditions are scheduled to start at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning in Peabody hall and will continue until noon. Final auditions will be held in the afternoon.

The students will eat noon lunch at Russell Sage and Ormsby halls and attend a banquet tomorrow night at Brokaw hall at which President Thomas N. Barrows will talk.

First prize in the contest will be a scholarship of $300, second $250, and third $200. There will be three others of $150 each awarded. Although voice and piano students are the most numerous, the conservatory has reported that all band and orchestral instruments will be represented.

The Lawrence A Cappella choir and a string trio composed of Edwin Shannon, violinist, Elwin Wiersma, cellist, and Milton Nelson, pianist, will appear at the banquet.

Sigma Alpha Iota, national music sorority, and the Lawrence Men's Music club have planned other activities for the contestants, including several campus tours, open house at Brokaw hall and Hamar House, and an organ recital at Memorial chapel from 3:45 to 4:30 tomorrow afternoon which the public may attend.

Committee to Consider Renting City-Owned Lot

An application to rent city-owned property at the corner of Badger avenue and Story street will be considered at a meeting of the public grounds and buildings committee of the common council at 11 o'clock Saturday morning in city hall, according to Alderman DeLand, committee chairman. The application was filed by John Wonders, Milwaukee, who proposes to open a curb store.

Ask City Funds to Help Fight Water Diversion

A request of the Great Lakes Harbors association for $100 to combat Chicago's attempt to use more water from Lake Michigan has been received by the city. The request has been turned over to the finance committee of the common council. The association is fighting to maintain the present level of Lake Michigan.

Foreign Policy of Nation Expressed In Hull's Speech

Warning Issued to Dictatorship Countries in Delicately Phrased Words

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—America has issued a warning of delicately phrased words to all the world—the dictatorship countries as well as the democracies.

Reading carefully between the lines of the address of Cordell Hull, secretary of state, it will be seen that the foreign policy of the United States has been pronounced as one of non-entangling alliances and non-involvement so far as purpose of objective is concerned. But any nation which thinks the United States will not fight to protect her own rights or the sanctity of international law as it affects her citizens is going to make a big mistake as did the German admiralty in 1917, when it proclaimed submarine warfare against all merchant vessels flying any flag and traveling anywhere to and from the continent of Europe.

Mr. Hull made it very plain, of course, that the United States wants peace and has made every effort to support the established processes of peaceful living in the world. But the secretary also pointed to the threats of international anarchy, the rising tide of violence and the continued disregard of sacred obligations and covenants.

American Rights
Europe and the Far East may read into the address whatever they like. The British and French people will derive much encouragement from the speech, though it does not go as far as they doubtless would prefer. The reason why great Britain and France should feel cheered by the Hull speech is that the United States proclaims its intention of building up its armed forces to protect its rights, and says, in the same utterance, that disregard of American rights will not be tolerated.

Perhaps the most significant passage in the address and one which is susceptible of an important interpretation looking toward possible association with democracies of the world is the following:

"The maintenance of these principles that are of concern to all nations alike cannot and should not be undertaken by any one nation alone. Prudence and common sense dictate that, where this and other nations have common interests and objectives, we should not hesitate to exchange information and to confer with the governments of such other nations and, in dealing with the problems confronting each alike, to proceed along parallel lines—this government retaining at all times its independence of judgment and freedom of action."

Alloof Attitude
"For nations which seek peace to assume with respect to each other attitudes of complete aloofness would serve only to encourage and virtually invite on the part of other nations, lawlessly inclined, policies and actions most likely to endanger peace."

This comes very near making a promise to Britain and France that we would associate ourselves with them under certain circumstances. America does not outline what those circumstances might be, in-

COMING TO APPLETON THEATER

That man's here again! Gene Autry is coming to the Appleton Theater, starting Saturday, March 19, for four days, in another of those rip-roarin', top notch musical westerns. This time it's Springtime in the Rockies, and the picture is just as splendid and unforgettable as the song on which it is based.

Also on the same program is "The Baroness and the Butler" with William Powell and Annabella.

Secretary Hull says the United States cannot "prepare and place before every government of the world, a detailed chart of the course of policy and action which this country will or will not pursue under any particular set of circumstances."

It must mean, on the other hand, that, pushed or goaded to extremes by any action of the dictatorship countries, the United States would not hesitate to place her fleet alongside that of Great Britain and France to accomplish at the earliest possible moment a respect for American rights.

This was precisely the attitude which the United States took in 1917, when, though refusing to become known as an "allied power," the official documents always spoke of the United States as an "associate." Also, in making peace, the United States even signed a separate treaty so as to remove all possible implication of a continued relationship that could be construed as an "alliance."

Belligerent Note
Some observers may see in the Hull speech a belligerent note or a doctrine that implies war. Such a reading is unjustified so far as anything that has happened as yet in Europe or the Far East, but, if the dictatorship countries imperil the lives of American citizens or deliberately or wantonly do damage to American interests, then the belligerent note may well become concrete.

Secretary Hull's speech was no ordinary proclamation of American purpose. It was a studied declaration designed to justify our increase in naval armament and at the same time to answer those critics who want to know what America's foreign policy really is. It so happens that the speech was delivered in an eventful week and fortunately will be read in the atmosphere of the biggest single act of lawlessness in modern times—the seizure of a weak independent state by a stronger neighbor—but the original idea behind the making of the address was to outline carefully the tenets of American foreign policy. That national policy can be expressed in a single sentence substantially as follows: "We want peace, we will strive for peace, but if any nation dares to provoke us or violate our rights, we will fight to protect our people."

If, ultimately, this means that the three democracies—France, Britain and the United States—find their respective rights all violated at the same time, it may mean also that the job left undone in 1919 at the peace table may some day have to

Strawberries in Appleton Markets As Spring Nears

New Potatoes Appear; Variety of Fruits, Vegetables Offered

Fresh strawberries and new potatoes, certain signs of spring, are being advertised today by Appleton fruit and vegetable stores. The strawberries are priced from 25 to 27 cents a quart. One store is selling five pounds of the new potatoes for 17 cents and another seven pounds for 25 cents.

Prices here vary with different stores, but approximate the average. Sweet Cuban pineapple at 19 cents, 10 grapefruit for 19 cents. Gano eating or cooking apples, eight pounds for 25 cents, three pounds of onions for 10 cents, Red River valley potatoes at $1.27 for a 100 pound sack, two bunches of radishes for five cents, tomatoes at 11 cents a pound, and five pounds of bananas for 25 cents are other prices observed today.

Two stores were selling large California oranges at two dozen for 29 cents and another Florida oranges at two dozen for 39 cents.

Other fruit and vegetable prices advertised: lemons, four for 10 cents, 29 cents dozen; yellow onions, three pounds for 10 cents; fresh peas, two pounds for 29 cents; cabbage, three pounds for 10 cents; cauliflower, 15 cents each; celery, three for 10 cents.

Election Officials Will Not Be Paid Until April

No checks will be issued to election board officials until after the April 5 election, according to Carl J. Becker, city clerk. Previously, checks were mailed to officials after the primary election and again after the April election. The practice has been discontinued to save duplicate work and expense, the city clerk said.

City Workmen are Busy Fixing Damaged Streets

Street department workmen are busy this week repairing city streets damaged by the spring thaw. Lloyd M. Schindler, reported today, streets where trouble is experienced every year are being fixed first and workmen will progress to those less in need of repairs as soon as possible.

RESIGNS POSITION

Madison—67—The Wisconsin Tax commission announced today John M. Rooney, commission attorney in charge of delinquent tax collection, had resigned. He will return to private law practice as soon as a successor is appointed.

Union and Hatten Officials Confer To Avert Strike

Mediator for State Labor Relations Board Attends Session

New London — A conference to settle the differences between the Hatten Lumber company and the Lumber and Sawmill Workers' Local 2876, and avert a strike threatened to go into effect tomorrow morning, was in progress at the office of the labor company at New London this afternoon.

Meeting with company and union officials was Walter Kwapil, mediator for the state labor relations board, in an effort to effect at least a temporary agreement demanded by the union in lieu of the strike.

A short conference at 8 o'clock last night accomplished nothing.

Day A. Hathaway, Milwaukee, vice president of the Wisconsin State Council of Carpenters, was a member of the union delegation. A committee of local labor heads presented the lumber workers' case. In the group were Harold Shirland and F. M. Griswold, president and vice president of the New London Central Labor council, and officers of the Sawmill Workers' Local 2876. Orin Krohn, president; Harold Kloebe, vice president; George Ostermeier, secretary, and Harold Ostermeier, treasurer.

The union workers are asking a 10 per cent increase in wages, a closed shop and better working conditions. Company officials have deferred action on an agreement submitted six weeks ago pending the decision of the labor board on the application of the Hatten Employees association, independent union, for listing by the board as a bonafide labor union.

A 'HARD' MAYOR

"I head an iron administration," said Herman Neubacker (above) as he took over the mayorship of Vienna. The city's first anti-Semitic mayor since the world war said the persecutions he had gone through for his pan-German sympathies had made a hard man of him.

Final Contests Held in Forensic Work at School

First and Second Place Winners Named: Others Placed on Squad

New London — Final contests were held in oratory and declamation at Washington High school last night. Only first and second places were announced, two others being selected for the squad to represent New London in interscholastic contests.

Alice Stanley won first in serious declamation; Shirley Fostad, sophomore, second. Gertrude Backes and Helen Schoenrock making the team. All are sophomores except Gertrude Backes, a senior. Mary Backes, junior, took first in humorous declamation; Helen Moede, freshman, second; Marjorie Lathrop, junior and Jean Fox, freshman.

First place winners will have their names engraved on bronze plates and hung on a plaque in the study hall, a departure from the awarding of cups as in the last eight years. There is no room for more names on the present cups.

Judges of the events last night were faculty members of the Waupaca High school, Miss Dorothy Roloff, Miss Dorothy Gates and Harold Canan.

Finals in extemporaneous speaking and reading will be held at 4:30 next Wednesday afternoon according to present plans.

Clintonville Girl Scout Troops are Reorganized

Clintonville — A complete reorganization of the Girl Scout troops of this city took place this week, following the celebration of the twenty-sixth anniversary of girl scouting at a party Saturday afternoon. There are 69 girls now enrolled in the two local troops.

The Shamrock troop was organized Wednesday afternoon and will function under the leadership of Mrs. Ralph Laney with Mrs. Gordon Juetten and Miss Mae Patterson as her assistants. Weekly meetings will be held at 4:30 each Monday afternoon at the girl scout room in the grade-school building. There are 29 members in the Shamrock troop, which is made up of girls from the eighth, ninth and tenth grades. They have been grouped into three patrols, the first of which will be led by Lorraine Moser and Joy Daskum; the second by Marjorie Stiles and Hope Martin; while Jean Krause will lead the third patrol. Eleanor Knaack was chosen scribe and Harriet Thompson, troop treasurer.

The troop composed of younger children met Tuesday afternoon and will choose its name at a later meeting. There are 40 girls in this group whose members are pupils of the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grades. Their leader will be Miss Alice Krueger, first grade teacher, who will be assisted by Miss Rose Zuker. Regular meetings will take place at 4 o'clock each Wednesday afternoon at the scout room. The troop has been divided into four patrols, the first being led by Geraldine Meagers and Joan Halla; the second by Irene Morris and Shirley Haskins; while Mary Sexton will be the leader of the third, and Mary Meidam will have charge of the fourth patrol.

The girl scout movement in Clintonville is sponsored by the Junior Woman's club. As a means of earning money to assist in carrying on some of their scout activities, the girls are taking orders for cartons of cookies for a period from March 15 to April 4. Each carton contains 40 butter cookies and sells for 25 cents.

Guild Has Party

A St. Patrick's day party entertained members of the Methodist Guild and their guests Thursday afternoon at the church parlors. About sixty were in attendance. The program included assembly singing of Irish songs, a travel talk on her trip last fall to Quebec Canada by Mrs. D. J. Rohrer, and an organ selection by Mrs. Donald Olsen. The luncheon committee included Mesdames Roy Martin, Harley Powell, Ward Winchester, Kenneth Darling and Kenneth Spearbraker.

Rising Water Is Threat to Travel

Road Between Leeman and Nichols May Become Impassable

Leeman — Water has been rising rapidly within the last few days over Highway 156, between Leeman and Nichols, and it is expected that the road will become impassable if the rise continues. One side road north of Nichols has been closed to traffic due to the recent spring thaws and heavy rains.

Mrs. Arthur Allen has been spending the week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. W. Marx in Appleton.

A large crowd attended the Ladies Aid meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Nelson. A social afternoon was spent. Hymns were sung and short devotional service with readings by the members. A solo, "My Redeemer," was offered by Miss Nora Nelson. Plans were made to meet on election day with Mrs. Raymond Larson, where dinner will be served to the voters.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Yeager, and Mrs. Amelia Knapp of Bear Creek, Miss Eugenia Knapp and James Hoffmann of Clintonville were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Knapp the first of the week.

New London Volleyball Squad Wins on Forfeit

New London — The New London adult recreation volleyball team won five games in the Fox River Valley league last night when the Fond du Lac team forfeited the contest which was scheduled here. The New London team is scheduled to go to Waupun next Monday evening for the last regular game of the season.

No Pep? Look Out For Acid Stomach

When you feel low and have no pep, the trouble, very often, is caused by an over-acid stomach. In that case, be sure to get KALIN Antacid Powder. It works two ways — first, it stops the over-active acid from aggravating the irritated stomach lining. Then it neutralizes the excess acid and thus aids in restoring normal digestion. If you suffer from indigestion or faulty diet — get a package of KALIN today. The first dose should give you relief. Your money back — if you don't agree it does more for your sick stomach than anything you ever used.

Wisconsin, Marquette Quintets Clash Tonight

Contest Planned as Benefit for SOTAL
Drum Corps

PRELIM AT 7:30

Will Honor George
Rooney of Badgers
Between HalvesTONIGHT'S GAMES
7:30—Little Chute Legion versus Fox River Paper Co.
8:30—George Rooney All-Stars versus Marquette All-Stars.

APPLETON and Fox river valley basketball fans will see an example of University of Wisconsin-Marquette University sports feeling first hand at 8:30 this evening when George Rooney's All-Star cagers composed of Wisconsin talent, meets Marquette University talent of the recently closed season and several other seasons at Alexander gymnasium of Lawrence college.

The evening's contest has been sponsored by Oney Johnston post of the American Legion and its junior organization, Sons of the American Legion. The proceeds will be used to defray expenses of the SOTAL drum and bugle corps to the state convention of the Legion at Ashland this summer.

Another feature of the evening will be honoring of George Rooney, Appleton's contribution to Big Ten basketball and an outstanding cager. He will be presented with a gift between halves. Herbert H. Hebl, principal of Appleton High school, will make the presentation.

Prelim at 7:30

Still another feature of the evening will be the preliminary game scheduled for 7:30. It will show the Little Chute American Legion team, one of the round winners in the Outagamie County league, battling the Fox River Paper company, which claims the Appleton city title.

The teams have clashed once this season with Fox River winning the verdict. The Hollander figure that can even matters this trip. George Rooney's all-star aggregation will show five men who at times this winter started or performed regularly for the University of Wisconsin. Rooney, co-captain of the Badger squad, and with three years' varsity experience behind him, will be at one forward position. The other will be held down by Hod Powell, the other half the Badger co-captaincy and named an all-conference forward on the Associated Press Big Ten selection.

At center there will be Bump Jones, a senior weighing 195 pounds and standing 6-feet, 4-inches. The guards will be Manie Frey, 165 pounds, and with two years' varsity experience, and Lee Mitchell, 200 pounds, and with three years' experience. None of the cagers is under 6 feet. The sixth member of the squad will be Fred Benz, who will play guard or center. He has honorary captain of the football squad last fall and played end.

Buvid on Squad
Marquette's lineup will show Paul Sokody, high scoring forward on the Hilltop squad this winter. George Hesk, who performed at a center position. Adolph Gorychka, "big mite," and a high scorer a few years back. Ray Buvid, who won fame on the football field but who also is a top-notch cager. Skippy McMahon, Al Calone and George Belhauer.

Tickets have been distributed among Marquette and Wisconsin alumni groups in the Fox river valley and reports are that a capacity crowd will see the contest.

Coach Eddie Kotal of Stevens Point Teachers college and Coach Joseph Shields of Appleton High school will referee the game. Myron Seims of the high school staff will be timer.

The two teams will show at Walworth tomorrow night, March 19, and at Two Rivers on March 28.

A YELL LEADER 7 YEARS

Ted Sura, head yell leader at Detroit university, figures he has more athletic letters for cheer leading than any other college pep producer in the U. S. Because there is no rule preventing cheerleaders from serving longer than the three varsity years limiting athletes, Sura will start his seventh season as a Titan leader next fall.

Wieman Proves He's Diplomatic Enough for Princeton Grid Post

PRINCETON, N. J.—In its own quiet, cultured way, Princeton university today is warming up to its own quiet, cultured head football coach, Elton E. (Ted) Wieman.

When his appointment to succeed Herbert O. Fritz Crisler first was announced, there were campus rumblings. Wieman, who came to Princeton in 1932 as Crisler's line coach, was too much the taskmaster, they said. He wasn't diplomatic enough for the job. He just wasn't the type.

Campus sentiment now indicates that virtually all of that feeling has been dispelled by Wieman himself. He presided in genial fashion yesterday over a luncheon for the press. He made far more important

Chaff'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

ALTHOUGH most of the high school and league basketball teams in this section of the state have hung up their togs, the season still has a few high-powered contests remaining.

Out at Alexander gymnasium of Lawrence college the Rooney All-Stars, a group of University of Wisconsin cagers, will tangle with an all-star Marquette squad tonight. The game is being sponsored by Oney Johnston post of the American Legion as a benefit for its drum and bugle corps.

The feature of the contest is that the Rooney squad will show five men who often started or appeared for the University of Wisconsin this season. They'll be a well-coordinated squad and should show some real basketball. It will be an opportunity to see about as close to a Wisconsin squad as many cager fans ever come because of the long trip to Madison and the fact downstaters get the edge on seats. Too, it will be an opportunity to see Rooney in action, the only Appleton youth to perform on a Big Ten squad in many years.

And then there's the series between the Little Chute Legion and the Appleton Town Taxi for the Outagamie County league title. The teams won the round titles and Sunday

Sharpshooters From Chicago and Neighboring Towns to Show

CHICAGO—(P)—Another shipment of the apparently inexhaustible supply of bowlers arrives in Chicago today.

The forty drives are cleared and ready for this latest influx of talent. There will be few let-ups from now on in, for the booster bowlers were largely disposed of last night. Until April 19 the keggers of championship caliber will put on the show, morning, afternoon and night. Sharpshooters from Chicago and neighboring towns make up the first two squads to participate in the team competition today. The visiting marksmen have the alleys later in the session.

Seims Trips Krueger inShuffle-Board Tourney

Myron Seims yesterday defeated Elton Krueger to advance to the finals in the faculty shuffle-board tournament being conducted at Appleton High school. Marvin Babler and Harvey Gygi will tangle in the other semifinal match and the winner will meet Seims for the faculty title.

strides at a dinner for the football squad earlier in the week. "He won the boys over to his side that time," was one undergraduate's opinion. "They all had their doubts about him at first. But after the dinner, and the way he talked to them, there may still be a few skeptics, but darn few."

There was no sign of a lack of diplomacy about Wieman at yesterday's affair. He answered questions freely, and, in general, appeared enough of a diplomat to soothe the most blood-thirsty old grad.

One of the chief factors that brought Princeton solidly behind this tall, baldish, 42-year-old line specialist is the fact that he did not propose any sweeping changes immediately on taking office.

Schedule First Of 3-Game Series For County Title

Town Taxi and Little Chute
To Clash at Legion
Hall Sunday

LITTLE CHUTE—The first in a series of three games to determine the championship of the Outagamie County Basketball league will be played between the Little Chute American Legion quint and Town Taxi at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Legion hall. The second game will be played at Appleton.

Town Taxi are entered in a tournament at Hartford and their appearance at Little Chute is contingent upon the outcome of games Friday and Saturday. If the squad enters the finals at Hartford Sunday, another team will play the Legion cagers at the scheduled time.

The Appleton squad is led by "Red" Ehke, a one-hand-shot artist, who may meet his match in Ernie Versteeg, Legion guard who has been doing outstanding defensive work. Yesterday held Ehke to two buckets in their last encounter. Ken Slattery is another star for the visitors while Frank Hammer and Karel Zimmerman are constant scoring threats.

The Legion will depend upon T. Jansen, Van Dyke and Versteeg to stop the Town Taxi offense while O. Bongers is expected to take care of Meyers at the center post with Benny Bongers held in reserve to relieve his brother. The Wildenberg brothers, Pete and Ralph, haven't been clicking of late and Don Peeters, a newcomer, may see a lot of action. Nic Jansen will be ready to step in if the going gets tough.

Mike's Tavern of New London and Mike's Tavern of Hilbert will meet in the opening game at 2 o'clock. Mike Schwartz of New London and Mike Vollmer of Hilbert will be doing sideline coaching in an effort to settle the supremacy at Kaukauna.

The Chuteans can't see their way clear to enter the Northern State circuit under the arrangement last year. For one thing, the money to run such a team isn't forthcoming. Another hitch is that the Chuteers feel that Little Chute and Kimberly should pool talent and have a single squad and then the team might pay its way. The two towns aren't kidding themselves into believing they can compete against Green Bay, Manitowish and Two Rivers, for instance, but feel that one good squad backed by both might accomplish something.

Reports from Fond du Lac are that Bruce Fero is thinking of turning pro. . . . You've seen him here often on amateur mitt programs. . . . Norbert "Nubs" Kleinfeld, Fond du Lac pitcher with Rochester and a member of the St. Louis Cardinal "chain gang," may be sold or released this spring; he's been up to the majors three times and under the baseball rules must be sold or turned loose. Judge Landis is pondering over his case.

There'll be a registered skeet shoot at Green Bay next Sunday. . . . And among those present will be Vic Reindorf, Waukesha, president of the state association. . . . Tom Kennally, the Chicago C. Y. O. heavyweight who used to attend St. Norbert college, visited at West DePere recently and confided he wished he was back in school. . . . A statement which Football Coach Francis McCormick seconded.

Black in a bout in Milwaukee the other evening. . . . Remember when Tony was a lightweight and used to appear in the amateur shows here? . . . Weiler Wolf broke Tony's jaw in one of the earliest amateur bouts locally.

Sports Mirror

Today A Year Ago—Lou Gehrig ended holdout, signing for $38,000. Dizzy Dean signed for $30,000 after applying for retirement.

Three Years Ago—Barney Ross accepted Lou Ambers' challenge for lightweight title bout June 5; daily double at Hialeah park paid all-time record $7,205 on single ticket.

Five Years Ago—Gregory Manin retained U. S. indoor tennis title, defeating Cliff Sutter; Babe Ruth and Colonel Jacob Ruppert failed to agree in salary conference.

V. F. W. to Enter Eight Teams in State Meet

Eight bowling teams will represent the Harvey Pierre post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at the state V. F. W. bowling tournament which opens at New London April 2. The Appleton teams plan to bowl April 24.

Carl Wagner is chairman of the post's bowling committee. Armin Scheurle is department director of bowling. The New London post is sponsoring the tournament.

High Jump Star Will Compete at Chicago

Chicago—(P)—Harold Osborn, famed high jump star, is scheduled to compete tonight in the fourth annual Central Amateur Athletic Union track and field championships at the University of Chicago fieldhouse. Osborn's central A.A.U. mark of 6 feet, 6½ inches, which he established 13 years ago, still stands.

More than 150 athletes are entered for the 15th event program. The University of Illinois thinclads expected to bid strongly for the team trophy, won last year by Chicago.

The tenth annual Armour Tech relays will be run off on the Chicago track tomorrow afternoon and evening, some 400 athletes from 40 colleges and universities are entered.

Oshkosh Would Join New Class D Baseball Circuit

Sawdust City Maps Plans
To Organize Squad,
Secure Field

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau
OSHKOSH—This city will be assured high class baseball with participation in Class D league company for the first time since 1913 and the Wisconsin-Illinois league it was announced here yesterday following a meeting attended by Clarence Bates, Appleton, representing Joseph Carr, president of the National Association of Baseball leagues.

Plans call for a 6-wheel circuit with teams from Oshkosh, Appleton, Green Bay, Manitowish, Sheboygan and Fond du Lac. Joseph Gazerowicz, secretary, said. Judge S. J. Luchinsinger of municipal court was elected temporary president of the Oshkosh organization.

Plans were also made to incorporate the Oshkosh club under the name of Oshkosh Baseball and Athletic association. Work on the new organization was started this year to assure a strong team for 1939, it was explained.

Consider Lights
Steps will be taken to secure a suitable playing field, either a field on 20th street, near the airport or near the incinerator plant will be selected. City cooperation is being sought both for the field and for a lighting system, for night baseball is planned.

Outlines Plans
A former big-league ex-player will be secured as manager, Gazerowicz intimated, and scouts will be sent out during the 1938 season to line up talent for the Class "D" teams.

The 6-team circuit is termed ideal because players will be able to return home each night. The present league schedule calls for 123 games, with at least 58 home games.

When the new league begins operations it will be the second Class "D" league in the state. Bates said. At present the Northern States league which includes Eau Claire, Wausau and Superior is a success, and when the new league starts, a championship series can be played between the winners in both leagues.

Missouri Valley Quints in Finals

4 Survivors in National Tourney From Same
Basketball League

Denver—(P)—If there is any amateur basketball circuit in the nation tougher than the Missouri Valley league, fans at the 31st national AAU tournament here would enjoy seeing it in action.

Only four teams of the 54 starters are left in the meet, and all four are M. V. A. U. clubs.

The prize quartet will tangle tonight in the semifinals before a crowd expected to match the gallery of 7,000 at last night's quarterfinals.

The four are the National Champion Denver Safeways; Bartlesville, Okla., Phillips, 1937 runnersup; Kansas City, Kas., Healeys, and Wichita, Kas., Gridleys.

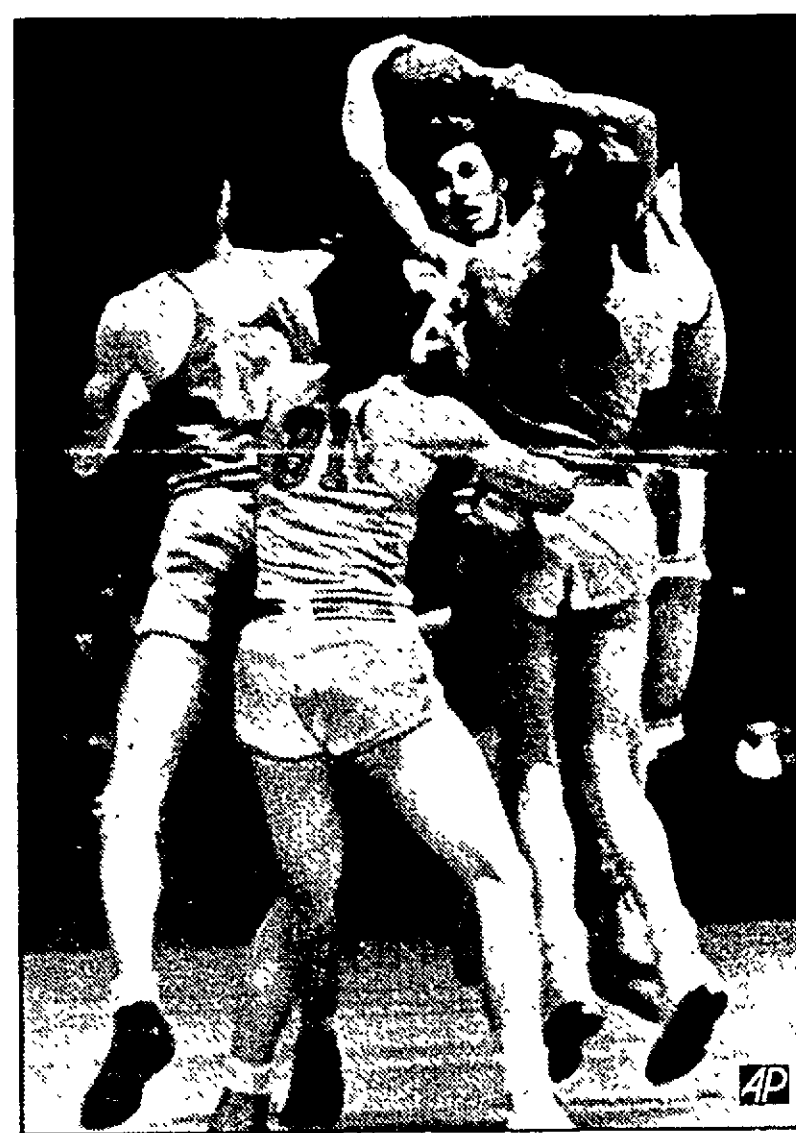

Hopes soared for a return of last year's blistering championship fray between Denver and the Oklahomaans, but each team read storm warnings.

The Safeways must get past Wichita, which broke the national champs' winning streak at seven straight in the league season. Phillips faces a dangerous opponent in the hustling Healeys.

The Healeys encountered plucky opposition last night but won from Warrensburg, Mo. Teachers, 42 to 38.

Report Derringer Will be Traded For Wally Berger

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK—(P)—Newest baseball rumor has "Zinnat" sending Paul Derringer to the Giants for Wally Berger and a load of cash. . . . Bill McKeechie always was sort of stuck on Wally. . . . In Harlem you can buy "Joe Louis" whiskey for a dime a gulp. . . . Only Giant to celebrate a birthday on St. Pat's day was Hy Vandenberg who happens to be a Swede. . . . Rival American league managers still insist the going of Tony Lazzeri will wreck the Yankee infield.

The electrolysis associates, an organization specializing in hair removing, has organized a baseball team. . . . And one of the games scheduled is with the House of David team, which specializes in beards. . . . Bill Terry turned down with thanks an offer by Louisiana State to send Mike the Bengal tiger, along as mascot when the Giants went to Lake Charles to play the Athletics.

Fight situation here deader than at any time since Mike Jacobs climbed into the driver's seat. . . . From Chicago Mike tries to steam things up by announcing Schmeling may not be able to come over and fight Louis because of the "scrambled situation" in Germany. . . . to which we say "neris". . . . Connie Mack has joined the chorus of those taking a poke at the Yankees. . . . Seize: "Unless he has improved over last season, Billy Knickerbocker would do the Yankees more good by remaining with the Browns". . . . Ouch!

Jerry Harder cracked a 210 game and Gruett a 535 series for the best scores in the J. C. C. bowling league last night. Their team, Chisholms, swept its match with the Squawkers and chalked high team scores, 765 for game and 2,137 for match.

For the losers, McNeil had 608. Stout turned in a 478 series as Beefers won two from Razzers, led by Strubbing who hit 511.

PATRIOTIC CYCLISTS
Recently Gustav Kilian and Heinz Vopel, German 6-day cyclists, demanded that two German national anthems be played after their victory in Buffalo, N. Y. races. Their patriotism was so admired at home that they were given $2,000 and an eight weeks' vacation with expenses paid from the Thuringia government.26 Volleyballers at State Tourney Meeting
Twenty-six volleyball players at the Y. M. C. A. gathered for a dinner and meeting last night and planned the state open volleyball meet to be held here starting April 2. Committees were announced and assignments discussed. Dr. R. V. Landis is general chairman of the meet and Ray Risch, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., is manager.

The teams clashed twice last week with Black Creek winning by a big score at home and Seymour in an overtime at Seymour. Previously the clubs met twice in Outagamie County league play and split honors.

Murray Displaces
Dushek as Regular Badger Heavyweight

Madison—(P)—Jack Murray, sophomore from Pennsylvania, and outstanding football player for the University of Wisconsin, will don the gloves and represent the Badgers in the heavyweight class when they meet Penn State here tonight.

Murray, who had never boxed before he tried for Coach Johnny Walsh's squad a few weeks ago, has progressed so well in the last few days that he has displaced Elmer Dushek, regular heavy.

Leo Houck, Penn State coach, is undecided as to his lineup for the card. Late yesterday he did not know who would represent the Lions in the 145 and 155 pound classes. Sammy Donato, eastern welterweight titlist, will be in one of the posts and either Ray Schweitzer or Paul Bachman at the other.

There is a slim possibility that Donato may try for the 135 pound division in order to fight Omar Crocker, who has won his last three fights via the knockout route. He is undefeated in four starts, having won a decision in his first appearance as a Badger against St. Norberts.

A crowd of 11,000 is expected.

Black Creek and Seymour Won't Play 3rd Game of Series

Black Creek—The third game of the series between Black Creek and Seymour teams and scheduled for Sunday afternoon here, will not be played, it was announced today by Wallace Sartorius, manager of the Black Creek team. He said Seymour had refused to come to Black Creek and offered no reason.

The teams clashed twice last week with Black Creek winning by a big score at home and Seymour in an overtime at Seymour. Previously the clubs met twice in Outagamie County league play and split honors.

Applications are Being Taken for Crop, Feed Loans

Farmers Eligible Only if They Can't Secure Credit Elsewhere

Waupaca — Applications for emergency crop and feed loans for 1938 are being received at the county agent's office by Leroy Larson for the field supervisor of the emergency crop and feed loan section of the Farm Credit administration.

The loans will be made, as in the past, only to farmers who cannot obtain credit from any other source. The money loaned will be limited to the farmer's immediate and actual cash needs for growing his 1938 crops or for the purchase of feed for livestock, and the amount which may be loaned to any one farmer in 1938 may not exceed $400.

Farmers who can obtain the funds they need from an individual, production credit association bank, or other concerns are not eligible for crop and feed loans from the emergency crop and feed loan section of the Farm Credit administration. The loans will not be made to standard rehabilitation clients whose current needs are provided for by the Farm Security Administration, formerly known as the Resettlement Administration.

Must Give Security
Farmers who obtain emergency crop and feed loans will give security a first lien on the crop financed, or a first lien on the livestock to be fed if the money borrowed is to be used to produce or purchase feed for livestock.

Where loans are made to tenants, the landlords, or others having an interest in the crops financed or the livestock to be fed, are required to waive their claims in favor of a lien to the governor of the Farm Credit administration until the loan is repaid.

Checks in payment of approved loans will be mailed from the regional emergency crop and feed loan office at St. Paul, Minn. The signatures of both man and wife are required; therefore, both should appear to make the application.

Each applicant should bring correct legal description of land in farm; and a list of the number of acres of each crop he will raise in 1938; a list of acres and yields for each crop raised in 1936 and in 1937 on the farm to be occupied in 1938. Those who apply for loans to buy feed or seed to produce a feed, should bring a complete list of his livestock including ear tag numbers and ages.

Find Few Bang's Disease Cases in 3 State Counties

Area Test Plan Shows Comparatively Low Incidence of Plague

A comparatively low incidence of Bang's disease is being discovered in three Wisconsin counties now operating under the area test plan, the state department of agriculture and markets reports in a bulletin received by R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent.

Out of 27,148 cattle tested in Portage county, only 705, or 2.7 per cent, were found to be reactors. With 38,172 cattle in the county, additional state and federal veterinary inspectors have been detailed to aid in completing the tests.

Of the 33,035 cattle in Juneau county, 14,086 had received their tests under the Bang area procedure up to Feb. 1 when the most recent progress report on the work in that county was issued. Only 691, or 4.9 per cent of those tested, were infected with Bang's disease. A considerably lower incidence of the disease has been found in Price county where 11,518 cattle were tested and only 57, or five-tenths of one per cent proved to be reactors. There are 24,407 cattle in the county.

The petitions of Langlade and Adams counties have been qualified and area tests will be undertaken in those counties in the near future, according to Dr. W. Wisnicky, livestock sanitation director. There are 24,351 cattle in Langlade county and 14,342 in Adams.

The three other counties that have petitioned for the Bang area tests—Dunn, Lincoln, and Bayfield—have a cattle population of 62,348, 27,668, and 16,430 respectively.

Hog Numbers Increase

Little Over Last Year

The number of hogs on farms on Jan. 1 was estimated at 44,418,000 head, according to a bulletin of the bureau of agricultural economics received by R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent. This is 1,470,000 head or 3.3 per cent more than a year earlier and the largest number since Jan. 1, 1934. The number was still much below that of any year in the 30-year period before 1935. Nearly all of the increase occurred in the corn belt states with numbers little changed in other areas. The value per head of $11.21 on Jan. 1 was 68 cents lower than a year earlier and the total value of $498,025,000 was about $12,000,000 less.

FIELD HEALTH MENACE

Miami, Fla. —(AP)—Add to the list of America's terrible mistakes: Ice Water.

"Ice water is a terrible mistake. It stops the natural elimination of toxic poison through perspiration."

20 HORSE POWER THRESHING ENGINE MIRS IN MUD

Spring sometimes brings trouble along with mild and warm weather as indicated in the above picture taken when a steam threshing engine recently stalled in the driveway of the John Kuepper farm, route 1, Menasha, in the town of Harrison. The engine was being used to move a 2-room house when the wheels sunk through a shallow layer of frozen ground. Old auto tires, stones and sticks were thrown under the spinning wheels to give leverage. Finally the workers had to resort to jacks to get the engine out of the hole. Farm Cooperative Leaders to Meet Here on March 23

Organization Problems Will Be Discussed At Gathering

Farm Cooperative leaders from Outagamie and surrounding counties will gather here Wednesday, March 23, for an all-day meeting, according to R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent, who is in charge of arrangements.

Letters of invitation to the meeting were sent out this week to all farm cooperatives in the district. Swanson and other Fox river valley county agents met recently while in Madison during Farm and Home week and discussed the advisability of holding such educational meetings for cooperative leaders.

Swanson will discuss the nature and purpose of the conference on the program which opens at 10 o'clock in the morning. J. B. Keenan of the Farm Credit administration will talk on highlights of farm credit administration survey of cooperatives.

R. K. Foker, of the college of agriculture, will talk on "Developing of Cooperative Features." H. M. Knipfel, secretary of the St. Paul Land Bank, will speak on "How a Cooperative Can Build a Financial Program." Other talks will be given by Ralph Ammon, director of the state department of agriculture and markets, and Ben Rusy, district extension leader.

Legumes are Not Cure-All for Soil Erosion Troubles

Legumes form a valuable part of almost any soil-conserving program, but they should not be regarded as a cure-all for soil erosion troubles, according to C. R. Enlow, chief agronomist of the soil conservation service in a letter to R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent.

Pure seedlings of leguminous plants have been found at soil conservation experiment stations to be considerably less effective for erosion control than mixtures of legumes and grasses.

Enlow points out further that not all legumes are good soil-binders. Soybeans, for example, have a tendency to loosen the soil, a condition favorable to erosion damage. Experiments have shown that soil losses under a soybean crop run about as high as under corn in a 3-year rotation with barley and clover.

In short, says Enlow, the mere fact that a plant is leguminous is no guarantee of its soil-binding capacities. The ability of any hay crop to check erosion depends primarily on the density of its growth and its sod-forming qualities.

More than 5,000,000 head of livestock was shipped from Texas in 1937.

Corn Styles are Starting Shift to Hybrid Varieties

Farmers in This Area are Putting Acreage to New Seed

And now, it's styles in corn that are changing.

The experience of the last few years indicates that corn growing throughout all upper Mississippi valley states is considered one of the most unique transitions in the history of American farming. Farmers in this area are making an almost complete shift from open pollinated corn to hybrid corn, according to R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent.

How complete this shift will be no one can tell, but it appears, in the corn belt proper, that it will be almost a complete one.

Predicts Big Shift
A. H. Wright, agronomist at the college of agriculture predicts that in a few years about 70 per cent of Wisconsin's corn acreage will be hybrid seed.

At the present time, there are about 250 farmers and seedsmen in Wisconsin who are producing hybrid seed. They are distributed so widely over the state that there are now one or more growers in nearly every county in which corn is an important crop.

Commenting upon the supply and price situation for this spring's planting, Wright reports that there is enough high quality adapted hybrid seed at present to take care of Wisconsin's demands. The 1937 crop is reported to be around 45,000 bushels of graded flats, which is more than twice as much as marketed last year. Although much of this is obtained by Wisconsin farmers, there is a good market for Wisconsin hybrids in Minnesota, northeastern Iowa, northeastern Illinois, and Michigan.

Wright is calling attention to the fact that producers of out-of-state hybrids are offering seed to Wisconsin, but that such seed from the principal corn belt states, is generally unsuited for Wisconsin conditions. Anyone who has a question about varieties adapted to this county should feel free to contact the county agent's office.

1,400 Bushels in County
During the 1937 season about 1,400 bushels of hybrid corn were produced in Outagamie county. This seed will soon be tagged and sealed and will then be offered for sale for planting in 1938. The acreage planted for the production of hybrid seed in Outagamie county, will no doubt be much greater in 1938 than it was in 1937.

The demand for hybrid corn has so far kept step very well with the hybrid seed production. The demand in Outagamie county for seed this year will, no doubt, exceed the amount in favor of the locally grown hybrid over other corn grown elsewhere and sold here by seed companies.

Any farmer unable to obtain seed can get information from the county agent's office or from Harvey Maass, secretary of the Outagamie Seed producers.

The results with the hybrid corn have been excellent and only a very few cases have the growers been dissatisfied with the results. In practically every case the difficulty has been planting the corn too thick. Users of hybrid seed are advised to plant the corn thin if they expect to harvest ear corn.

EAGLE TAKES THE RAP
Roundup, Mont. (AP)—Where a coyote should have been, Highway Patrolman Charles Dell and Jack Thomas found an eagle.

The bird was fluttering in a trap set by a coyote hunter near Rye-gate and attracted the attention of the two men as they were driving along a nearby highway.

Investigating, they discovered the eagle was not injured seriously and they brought it to Roundup.

Urges Farmers to Bury Carcasses Of Dead Animals

Unburied Bodies Danger To Health of Other Livestock, Wisnicky Says

Desiring to protect their healthy cattle from exposure to contagious and infectious diseases conveyed on the carcasses of unburied animals, many farmers are asking the state department of agriculture and markets to call attention to the law relating to the disposition of animals that have died from various diseases.

Enacted years ago, the law takes into consideration the fact that carcasses are attraction for dogs, crows and other kinds of prowlers, that may carry portions of the dead animals to places where livestock will be exposed, according to Dr. W. Wisnicky, livestock sanitation director, in a bulletin to R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent.

The law reads: No persons shall deposit or allow to deposit into any stream, lake or swale, or leave or deposit or cause to be deposited upon any public highway or other place the carcass of any animal; nor deposit or permit to be deposited upon any premises under his control any dead animal exposed in such manner as to be reached by dogs or wild animals for a longer period than 24 hours in the months of April to November, inclusive, or 48 hours during the months of December to March, inclusive.

During the winter and early spring when the ground is frozen and it is difficult to dig a hole for proper burial of the carcass it is best to burn the dead animals, Dr. Wisnicky advised. Depositing dead animals during the season when the ground is frozen in places where they may be reached by dogs or birds is not only contrary to law but extremely dangerous, he stressed.

Animals born prematurely may contain contagious or infectious disease organisms. Throwing them over the fence for future burial causes a very serious hazard to the health of livestock in the neighborhood, Dr. Wisnicky warned.

Don't Give Up Until Last Card Played

BY ELY CULBERTSON

The saddest of all spectacles at the bridge table is the player who gives up without a struggle. In this respect bridge is not different from football, baseball, etc. A fighting spirit is prerequisite No. 1. For sporting as well as for practical reasons, hands should be played out to the bitter end.

The bidding:
West North East South
1 club 1 diamond 1 spade 2 hearts
2 spades Pass Pass 3 hearts
3 spades Pass Pass 4 hearts
Double Pass Pass Pass

North's diamond overall was so weak that, despite his heart support, he did not feel justified in raising. But South, with a seven card suit and the knowledge that his partner had some strength, correctly persisted to four hearts as a sacrifice.

West opened the diamond king "to take a look," and then shifted to the spade ace. When East followed with a low spade, West tried out the club situation by laying down the ace and watching for his partner's card. East, however, was about as cooperative at this point as a sore thumb. He felt that he could not spare the jack and, hence, played the deuce. His failure to recognize the need for grabbing another club trick was nothing short of criminal. West, by leading the diamond king, had clearly shown three diamonds since, had he held the ace and king blank, he would have opened the ace. West's spade ace lead had disclaimed possession of the king. Thus, no more spade or diamond tricks were to be expected from the defenders, and unless two club tricks were quickly taken there was a grave risk that declarer would be able to establish at least one trick in dummy's diamond suit. West, a trusting soul, believed East's deuce of clubs and, since East's spade followed suit card had not been quite so discouraging (declarer had played the spade seven on the ace, concealing the deuce). West now led another spade. Dummy's queen won, and declarer promptly drew the outstanding trumps and, with an air of having saved game at a piffing loss, gayly presented the defenders with another club trick. As his irate partner quickly pointed out, he should not have been so complacent.

Due to the defenders' failure to grab the second club trick, a beautiful opportunity had been presented. Declarer, after winning with Dummy's spade queen declarer had nothing to lose and a great deal to gain by the following line of play.

Ruff a low diamond and lead a trump to the king. Ruff another low diamond. Now a trump to the king would account for the outstanding trumps, and at this point the four heart "sacrifice bid" would be fulfilled, or lost, by the proper guess on the next diamond lead. East, of course, would not cover the jack, but declarer should throw off his club, rather than ruff in the expectation of dropping the queen from West.

There would be more chance that West had started with only three diamonds than with four, since he had bid clubs, raised spades twice and, in the play, showed two hearts. Obviously, if East unwisely covered the diamond jack, declarer could merely ruff, and by ruffing the good spade king with dummy's heart deuce could render dummy to cash the diamond ten.

That the declarer should have conceded defeat, without even attempting the establishment of a diamond trick, is past understanding.

Flowering hedges like those made by using spiraea, deutzias and lilacs should be cut back at once when the flowering season has passed. Rather severe cutting is necessary if such hedges are to be kept in good condition. Next year's flowers are made from buds, which will be started this season, and unless the trimming is done early these buds will be cut off.

In Brittany, France, there is a statue of St. Guirec which has had to have its nose replaced several times since it was first erected in the 13th century. It is an old custom for girls who want an early marriage to prick the nose with a pin; and since American girls have discovered the statue even the granite nose it now has is rapidly being worn away.

Flapper Grandmas Fool Nobody But Themselves

BY DOROTHY DIN

One of the most common and tragic spectacles of this modern world is the woman who refuses to be her age. Everywhere we go we see Flapper Grandmas trying to look and act as if she were 17 instead of past 70. When we see her painted face, dyed hair, debutante clothes, and hear her simpering, smirking and teasing herself about her boy friends, we don't know whether to laugh at her or cry over her. She is such a figure of fun and so pitiable.

The only person that the old woman fools when she tries to look and act like a girl is herself. The most casual observer sees at a glance through her transparent disguise, for no art and no artifice can conceal the ravages of time. Barrels of henna will not make gray hair look like young hair. Tons of cosmetics will not give old skin the velvety beauty of girlhood. Though an old face be lifted until it is as round and wrinkleless as a baby's there will still be looking out from it the tired old eyes that have seen so much.

Nor does the old woman who essays to go the pace of youth, and who jumps around like a monkey on a stick, give a convincing performance of high spirits and vivacity. Her laughter is as mirthless as the creaking of thorns under a pot for above the click of the jazz band is the creaking of her rheumatic old joints.

Of course, these women who work so hard and suffer so much trying to hold on to a vanished youth alibi their folly by saying that they are still mere girls at heart, but this is not true. The mind and the soul are even faster than the body, so no woman who has lived for sixty or seventy years can have the desires, the tastes or the emotions of a young girl unless she is a moron.

The pity of the thing is that in trying to be young when they are old, women fall between the stools and lose completely out, for they miss the pleasures of both youth and age. They cannot stay young and they will not grow old, so they have not the joy and thrill of one estate or the peace and comfort of the other.

The truth is that women are the victims of the mischievous propaganda that has taught them to believe that retaining their youth is the most important thing in the world; the only thing that makes life attractive and interesting to them; the only thing that makes life worth while, and that the greatest misfortune that can befall a woman is to grow old. Far from this being the case, age is frequently the best part of a woman's life, just as the twilight is the most beautiful part of the day. But time is only to those who welcome it as a friend and who are wise enough not to fight a battle with it that is bound to end in defeat.

Many women are far more beautiful when they are old than they were when they were young. The years are a sculptor that chisels down rough features and gives them symmetry and grace. Gray hair can become a halo about a face and make for it a setting that no dyed hair can give. And often through sheer goodness and kindness an old woman becomes beautiful because her soul shines through her face like a light through an alabaster vase.

Every old woman is more beautiful than a young woman because she has seen and known so much of life. No woman can have gone through all the experiences of girlhood and womanhood and known love and marriage and birth and death and toil and failure and triumph without having a repertoire of stories to tell far more wonderful than any plot ever imagined by a novelist.

Furthermore, age brings so many privileges. One's job is done. The heat and labor of the day are over and a woman can sit with folded hands and try to figure out what all the shouting and the tumult has been about. For the first time in her life she has the leisure to commune with her own soul and get acquainted with herself. And that is no mean pleasure of itself.

She has the perfect alibi for doing everything she wants and leaving undone those things she does not want to do. She is strong and well and perfectly able to go on tours around the world, but she is too old to have to nurse the children and run church suppers. Having read the books it was her duty to read for the improvement of her mind and heard symphony concerts, she is free to read sixth-best sellers and listen to jazz.

The moral of all of which is that there are many pleasures and perquisites in being old if a woman is only willing to be Grandma when she is a Grandma.

Old Gardener Says:
BY E. J. FARRINGTON
Three noteworthy new calendars are being offered by the seedsmen this year. Orange Fantasy is distinctive in its form. The outer rows of petals are long and twisted, while the inner petals are piled on top of each other to form a heavy crest. The flowers are large and a pleasing coppery orange in color. Sunburst is less stiff and formal in its appearance than most calendars, which makes it particularly valuable for cutting. The flowers are a warm shade of apricot-orange, lightening to yellow towards the center. Tip Top is particularly interesting because of the many color tones which it contains. It shades from a light buff at the center to a deep apricot at the tips of the petals.

My Neighbor Says—
If you have a gas or electric refrigerator, try using fruit juices for ice cubes instead of water. They are very pretty in fruit beverages. Lemon cubes are lovely in iced tea.

When sugar gets hard and lumpy, put it in the refrigerator for two or three days and you will find it will become quite soft again.

Sliced bananas blend well with cooked cherries when used for filling baked tarts. They are good served plain or more festive when spread with whipped cream.

Tokyo Bowling and Food

It is an old custom in Japan to bow. The bow starts at the waist, and the head goes down about one-third of the way to the floor. There are even lower bows than that in Japan, but most of those I've seen have been as described.

Japanese at low table. Speaking of bowling, I saw a Japanese woman meet a man in the elevator. He bowed, and she bowed, then he bowed again. Between the ground floor and the fourth floor (where he got off) they bowed three times apiece.

That is not the longest series of bows I have seen. In the lobby of my Tokyo hotel, I saw a man and a woman bow so many times that I wondered if they ever would finish. When at last they stopped, they must have exchanged about 15 bows!

I am not sure, but I believe they kept saying friendly words to each other, such as "I hope you are well," "You are looking fine," or "I trust your family is in good health." Whatever they did say, they bowed long enough to prove they wanted to be polite.

The other evening I went to a restaurant to eat some sukiyaki. It is perhaps the most famous food of Japan.

Two young women in bright-colored kimono bowed to me as the head waitress bowed. As I sat down, the girl who was to serve me bowed.

My seat was a cushion on the floor. My table was of the usual one-foot-high kind. After I had given my order, the waitress brought quite a number of thin pieces of beef to the table, also some vegetables. All the food was raw when it was brought in, but it was placed in a frying pan, and heated over a little electric stove next to the table.

The waitress cracked a raw egg, and put the contents in a little bowl. Taking a pair of chopsticks in my right hand, I started to eat the food as it came from the frying pan. Having had some practice, I was able to manage the chopsticks fairly well. Each bit of the "sukiyaki," I dipped in the raw egg which I had stirred. This cooled it, and also gave it a thin coating of egg.

Best to Speak Clearly, Slowly to Young Child

BY ANGELO PATRI

We all deal largely in words. They are the medium of association between people. The quickest way of establishing human relations is by word of mouth from one to the other. Our first speech was in our hands. We pointed, then we waved, and then we moulded the air to express our meaning. The first words were sounds that imitated other sounds. Little by little we clothed these sounds with meaning as experience gave them meaning.

Little children start pretty much at the original place. They make gestures and they make sounds. By and by they imitate the word sounds they hear and we say they have begun to talk. So they have. But we are likely to give their talk, and our talk to them, deeper and fuller meaning than they have. Little children are using sounds for talk and those sounds do not have the full meaning of words as we know them. This is what makes relations between parents and children a bit out of balance at times.

"He knew what I wanted him to do. Why I told him about three times and he repeated it before he started. Then he has the face to tell me he didn't understand what I meant. Goodness. If he is as dumb as all that—of course he isn't. Didn't he repeat my very words? And then go on and do the exact opposite."

When he said he did not understand he was telling the truth. Then why didn't he say so before he started off to do the wrong? Because he didn't know that he did not understand until he was faced with the situation. Then he found himself confused; did what he hoped would be all right and learned that it wasn't when his mother said it wasn't. He had not had enough experience with the language his mother used to put meaning into the sounds.

Maybe his mother talked too fast. If you are learning a foreign tongue one of the first things you ask is that the teacher talk slowly for you so that you have time to hear. Hearing language is not a matter of ears only. Ears are the first stage of hearing. The mental hearing comes after that. The mind must take the sounds and interpret them; put meaning into them. This cannot be done unless the listener has practice and experience with the words that are being used. You hear only what you KNOW.

This is true even of some older children. They are slow to get the meaning of a flow of words. They catch some of them and take them for what they mean to them without knowing their relation to other words in the flow. This accounts for errands half done, for items left out of an order or of a day's work, for misunderstanding of many kinds.

Give children time. Speak clearly and slowly. Make orders and directions as brief as possible. Ask the child to tell you what he has heard and listen to the tones of his voice rather than to the words he says. What his mind says is putting the tone in his words. If his mind is not clear, if it is uncertain, the tone will tell. Then you patiently

Grooming Gadgets Welcome

BY ELSIE FIERCE

Good grooming gadgets are always welcome. Particularly in the spring when a woman's fancy naturally turns to novelties, particularly, too, when efficiency and utility are packed in such small space and cost so little that the purse has no trouble carrying its little load.

Think what happens every time you open your compact to powder your nose. Confess, now, isn't it the rare, meticulously careful woman who does not get a few powder grains on the front of her frocks . . . without fail? Perhaps you've been driven to distraction to the point where you vowed you would carry a whisk broom with you. That's just what you can have in the neat new gadget—a whisk brush, pocket edition.

It also doubles as a compact cover, keeping your favorite case from unwelcome and unsightly nicks and scratches.

You can buy the black moire compact cover whisk brush for very little, and for three times as much, which is still very little, an attractive loose powder compact, either square or oblong, in plain enamel, gold or silver finish plus the compact cover and brush.

As a birthday or bridge gift, or for your Easter list this little gadget should be grand. And you'll want to treat yourself to one, too.

Carrying the idea further, a full-size comb folds up and slips into a moire case equipped with the handy brush at one end. And, believe it or not, the entire brush portion is not much more than one and a half inches long.

It's aptly called "Whisker" because it whisks those annoying powder particles away in no time. It is also apt to use after combing one's hair.

as my daughter is only just seventeen. To meet with such old-time convention makes me feel that I will be considered rude if I ignore it. At the same time I do want to respect the wishes of my children if they are reasonable according to today's standards. Can you understand this problem of their feelings in opposition to my training?

Answer: Yes, I think I know how young people feel, and how their feelings affect you. But at the same time they should be made to realize that they must on occasion give way to the precepts of established form. A girl may certainly accept a boy's invitation to a party he is giving, or to one of their young dances, the idea being that she is going with her other friends as well as with him. But properly a young girl does not accept the first invitation of a boy to have dinner or to spend the evening or the week-end with his family alone unless this invitation is in some way seconded by his mother. We all know there are certain groups of modern parents who seem to think it unnecessary to follow any of the precepts of convention, but whether they and their children agree with me or not, I still hold to the belief that it is not too much to ask that certain precepts of good form be maintained. You would be entirely right to send some message to a girl whom your son invites to your house for the first time. Once you know her and once she has come to your house, it isn't necessary that you second your son's invitation to her each time. But certainly you must return the visit of the mother of the boy who came to see you—it would be very rude not to do so.

Dear Mrs. Post: My fiancé and I like to be together in the evening whenever we can. But this is a small town and there are so few things to do, and anyway we want to save as much of our money as we possibly can. Often my parents are out on the evenings we want to stay home. Is it not all right for us to be alone in the house? I mean, under the circumstances I have explained, do you think any one could possibly gossip?

Answer: Certainly it is all right for you to be alone in the house. If it is not proper for a man to spend the evening alone with the girl whom he has asked to be his wife, then it would be very hard to find a situation which is proper.

The WORLD of STAMPS

BY JAMES B. HATCHER

If someone asked you to name offhand a few products of British Honduras, you might be stumped—unless you had seen the new George VI issue for this Central American colony. These three stamps—the first semi-pictorial for British Honduras—frankly publicize the local industries.

The 3-cent brown and purple shows the ohme palm, valuable for its oil. The 4-cent green and black is a sort of composite ad, depicting and listing eight products: chicle, grapefruit, bananas, sugar, mahogany, coconuts, ohme and rice. The 5-cent blue and purple shows a grapefruit grove.

The king's medallion portrait adorns each stamp. The paper is watermarked crown and CA script. Bradbury, Wilkinson & Co. did the engraving and recess-printing. Mahogany was one of the woods which the first English settlers cut along the Belize river banks back in the seventeenth century.

"Tiger-Skin Hero"
The Georgian poet, Chota Roustaveli, wrote an epic poem called "Tiger-Skin Hero" 750 years ago, and the U. S. S. R. has honored the anniversary by issuing a special 20-kopek green stamp.

The vignette shows bearded Roustaveli wearing a peaked cap and writing in a book. The inscription of the date and poet's name appears in both Russian and Georgian. The paper is unwatermarked.

Whales' Jaw-Bones
About 250 miles east of Argentina's southern tip lie the Falklands—a British colony of a hundred islands which the Argentine has long claimed futilely. (Remember that Argentine map stamp?)

An idea of the place can be gathered from the George VI semi-pictorial set which recently appeared. Design subjects are:

A pair of huge whales' jaw-bones, black-necked swan, battle memorial (a famous sea fight occurred here), flock of sheep (sheep raising is the chief industry), upland geese, R. R. S. Discovery II, R. R. S. William Scoresby, Mount Sugar Top, gentoo penguins, sea lion, Deception Island and the colony's coat-of-arms.

Three kinds of penguins have their rookeries and breed in the Falklands, migrating yearly for some stamps were recess-printed by Perkins, Bacon & Co., London. Values and colors: 4-penny green and black, 1-penny scarlet and black, 2-penny violet and black, 2-penny bright blue and black, 4-penny purple and black, 6-penny brown and black, 9-penny blue and black, 1-shilling pale blue, 2-shilling black, 5-shilling orange and black, 10-shilling orange and black, 1-pound violet and black.

CONDUCT AUCTION
A stamp auction was conducted by members of the Appleton High school Philatelic society at a meeting Wednesday at the high school. Plans for future meetings were discussed. Hubert Wettengel was appointed to secure a speaker for the next meeting of the group.

Shops for New Hat and Purchases His Old One
Belleville, Ont.—Robert Wilson, Sydney farm hand, recently swaggered into a local store to buy a new chapeau.

After a score of new hats had been tried on, Wilson finally made a decision.

"This one fits perfectly. I think I'll take it," he said.

"Do you want your old one?" asked the clerk.

"I don't suppose I'll ever wear it again, but you might put it in a bag and I'll take it along with me," countered Wilson.

To the consternation of both, it was discovered that Wilson had purchased his own hat.

Wash the broiler rack of your stove in plenty of hot soapy water—just as you would wash any other cooking utensils. Dry it carefully before replacing it. You will then have a broiler that will continuously look like new.

District Firemen Granted Charters At Marion Session

Tigerton and Dale File Application to Enter Association

Marion—The Northeastern Wisconsin Firemen's association held a meeting at the village hall Wednesday, with Fred Pockat, chairman of the entertainment committee, opening the meeting. Herman Bengt, village president, gave the address of welcome to the visiting firemen, and turned the key to the village over to them during their stay here. The response was given by Ralph Riestle of New London, president of the association.

The business meeting was held and charters were presented to the following cities and villages: Shawano, Clintonville, New London, Hortonville, Marion, Weyauwega, Bowler, Bonduel and Cleon. Manawa was not represented. Tigerton and Dale presented their applications for membership in the association.

After the business meeting the assembly was turned over to B. E. Meyer, who acted as master of ceremonies. Michael Foley, with his prize team in first aid, composed of John Pfeiler and Jim Rogers, gave a demonstration on stopping bleeding and placing splints.

Talks on First Aid

C. H. Dinsmore of Madison addressed the group on first aid and resuscitation, and was assisted by the team from Clintonville, Everett Johnson, Ralph Rockman, Harold Hoffman, and Ray Krusack.

Pegler Lauds First Lady As Greatest in America

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

San Francisco, Cal.—Mrs. Roosevelt came to San Francisco from Los Angeles by train to deliver her lecture on peace at the very hour when the heads of the bulldog editions were yelling "Hitler defies the world!" "France threatens war on Germany!" She arrived at noon and was taken over the usual jumps by the inevitable committee. Her chores included an appearance on the grounds of the 1939 world's fair, where she sat on a tractor and went through the motions of turning the first gouge of ground for a federal building.

Some time during the day she had to turn out her syndicate copy, and presumably she took a few practice swings before her mirror at the hotel before advancing to the pulpit in the civic auditorium to say her say on a subject which, in the present state of the world, only a brave and honest person would attempt. She spoke for an hour and fifteen minutes to a crowd almost entirely made up of people over the combatant war age and then left by another night train for Fresno.

It had been another routine day in the life of one who is sturdily described as the "most remarkable" and "most energetic" woman of her time in this country, but who deserves more than that. I think we can take the wraps off and call her the greatest American woman, because there is no other who works as hard or knows the low-down truth about the people and the troubles in their hearts as well as she does.

And for what reason? Mrs. Roosevelt doesn't give a damn about politics in the partisan sense. Profit? She is one member of the family who will not have a dollar of profit to show for eight or more years of banging around the country in a schedule that would break the body and mind of an old-time circus trouper.

There was no style about her audience for the lecture on peace. Undoubtedly there were some more fans and some more or less deserving Democrats, but the spirit of the gathering, if it is possible to describe a spirit—was one of earnest hope for some cheerful news, some discovery of a formula that would touch the soul of the monster who had just kidnapped a whole country in Europe and threatened to kidnap another as soon as he got his wind.

Communists Were Trying To Thump Ride
Of course the communists were out, as usual, trying to thump a ride. Outside the hall they were distributing a tract by Earl Browder advocating cooperation of the peaceful countries.

With the Moscow slaughter house to boycott the Reich and Italy in the hour of victory have Russia a great military power and her colleagues push-overters for the Browders, the Soviet union, he said, is fully prepared to defend herself, but "preparedness" for this country he ridiculed as warlike and reactionary.

Mrs. Roosevelt's effort is the more creditable because she works in the straitjacket of diplomatic and political restraints. Many tempting weapons and arguments lie just out of her reach, because, obviously, she cannot mention Hitler or Germany or go into the particulars of international disputes in the situation. Standing before an unsightly and ragged bit of scenery intended to represent either a peacock's fan or an iridescent clamshell, she nevertheless got home her argument that peace now is not Neenah—Bergstrom Papers staged a surprise last night by walloping the league-leading Banta Publishers, 23 to 17, to move into a share of first place in the Twin City Industrial basketball league at Roosevelt gymnasium. A capacity crowd witnessed the game.

Had the Publishers won last night they would have been practically out of danger. Providing the Papers and the Publishers win the rest of their games next week, the two teams will have to clash again for undisputed possession of the title.

In the other league game last night, the Marathon Papers edged out a victory over the Martens Creamery, 28 to 26, in a nip and tuck battle.

Nine games and probably 10 are left in the season. They will be played next week when the Martens meet the Lakeviews at 7:15 Tuesday night, the Gord's play the News-Times at 8 o'clock, and the Publishers clash with the DeMolays at 8:45. On Wednesday night the Bergstroms clash with the Wooden Wares at 7:15, the DeMolays play the Martens at 7:45, and the Lakeviews meet the Gord's at 8:45. On Thursday evening the Bantas versus the Marathons at 7:15, the Bergstroms play the News-Times at 8 o'clock, and the Wooden Wares play the Falcons at 8:45.

Lead at Half

The Bergstrom Papers held a 1-point margin over the Bantas 10 to 9, at the half. They outplayed the Publishers during the second period, netting a total of 18 points to the Bantas' eight.

Schmidt and Hoks, Bergstrom forwards, shared scoring honors, each collecting seven points on three baskets and a free throw. A. Godhardt, Banta center, was high scorer for the Publishers, sinking three field goals.

The Marathon Papers checked a rally on the part of the Martens' Creamery five in the final minutes of the game to edge out a 2-point triumph. The score was deadlocked, 14-all, at the half.

Jack Hesselman, center, Neenah High school star this season who joined the Martens, copied scoring honors. He dropped in five field goals and three free throws. Vetter and Reischl, Marathon forward and center respectively, shared scoring honors for the Papers with four baskets each.

Neenah French Club to Hold Supper, Program

Neenah—The Neenah High school French club, under the supervision of Miss Cordelia Thurston, will stage an all-French supper and program in the French school cafeteria at 6 o'clock Thursday evening, March 31. The club members will speak only French during the dinner and French foods will be served. A program consisting of French songs and games will be held following the dinner. There are 17 students in the club.

The club also is planning a joint dinner meeting with the high school German club. It is planned to have the students dress in accordance with the various parts of France and Germany which they will represent.

Miss Thurston's German club viewed motion pictures today, "The Historic Rhine Land," and "Picturesque Salzburg, Danube and Vienna."

Pineroos Beat Oshkosh Team in Bowling Match

Menasha—Hendy Pineroos scored another victory over the pin hops of St. Mary's alleys at Oshkosh, Wednesday evening in three straight games. The team scores were 895, 864 and 872 for 2,631 while the St. Mary pin boys had marks of 875, 861 and 760 for 2,496. Spang collected the high game with a 213 mark, followed by Fritz with 209 and Kolgen with 208.

The Twin Cities office of the Appleton Post-Crescent for its editorial circulation and advertising departments is located at 510 N. Commercial street and the telephone number is 4100. This number also may be called before 7 o'clock in the evening for delivery of papers missed by carriers in Neenah or Menasha.

Court Sends Two Men To Jail When They Admit Spearing Fish

Neenah—Frank Yeadeke and Emil Yeadeke, Mathewson street, Menasha, were sentenced to 30 days each in the county jail Thursday afternoon when they pleaded guilty of came law violations when arraigned before Justice Gaylord C. Loehning in court.

The defendants were arrested Thursday by Conservation Warden A. C. Chase, Oshkosh. Chase testified that he observed the two men spearing fish below the Neenah dam. They had eight pike in their possession, some of them weighing 7 or 8 pounds, he reported.

Justice Loehning gave the defendants an alternative of paying fines of $50 and costs, but they were unable to pay.

Chase told the justice he arrested the men while investigating several complaints of men spearing pike this week below the Neenah and Menasha dams.

Speech Club Issues Newspaper at School

Menasha—The St. Mary Speaker, a mimeographed publication by the Speech club of St. Mary High school, has made its first appearance. The paper was written by the members of the club and copies were distributed to students of the high school Thursday.

An elimination contest will be sponsored by the club shortly at which three finalists in declamatory and oratory contests and six Catholic Action speakers will be chosen. These finalists later will take part in a public program.

Officers of the club during the second semester are Louise Krautkranner, president; Dorothy Reimer, first vice president; Jeanette Schmidt, second vice president; Charles Schaller, secretary; Patricia Spalding, treasurer; Francis Staniak, sergeant-at-arms; and Julianne Munter, parliamentarian. Patricia Heenan was the president during the first semester. Father Joseph Becker is an honorary member while Arnold J. Kane is the club moderator and critic.

Elderly Man Hurt In Auto Accident

Myron Dunn, 78, Neenah, Injured While Crossing Street

Neenah—Myron Dunn, 78, 200 Winneconne avenue, was injured when involved in an accident with a car driven by Percy Marceau, route 1, Menasha, at 3:40 Thursday afternoon at S. Commercial street and Columbian avenue. It was the first accident reported to police in Neenah this month.

Dunn received a severe cut on the back of his head. He was taken to a doctor's office for treatment.

Police reported that the automobile was traveling south on S. Commercial street and making a right turn into West Columbian avenue, while Dunn was walking south on Commercial street and crossing Columbian avenue when the accident occurred. He was knocked to the pavement, the back of his head hitting the concrete street.

Police said that Marceau told them that he was blinded by the sun and didn't see the man crossing the street.

Suggest Programs for Neenah School Assembly

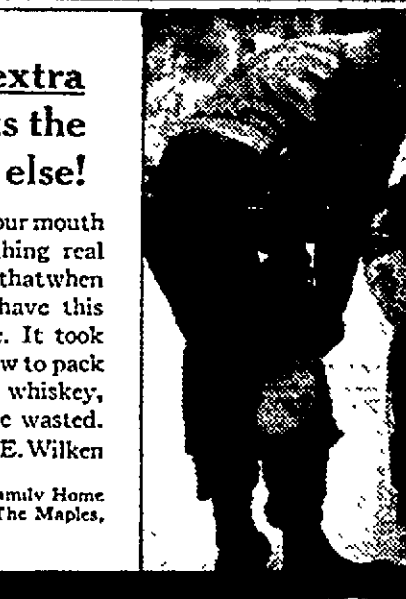

Neenah—The entertainment committee of the Neenah High school student council this morning recommended assembly programs for next year. The programs include the following: Ritz Trumpeters university extension; Arthur F. Kane, "After You, Marco Polo," university extension; Glenn Morris, "The Magic of Science," university extension, and three 1-act plays by L. Verne Slout, "He Knew Lincoln," "Trusting Trail," and "Merchant of Venice," the court room scene.

Senior Class Play to Be Presented April 4

Menasha—The senior class play, "Mignonette," will be given in the new Menasha High school auditorium on Monday, April 4, according to the announcement today by John Novakofski, director. The play will be one of the first high school activities presented in the spacious new auditorium.

Due to the delay in the completion of the auditorium unit of the building, student members of the cast experienced many difficulties in rehearsals. Rehearsals have been held three times a week since the Christmas recess. The students have expended effort in the interpretation of their roles and the public is assured a fine performance, according to the director.

The play, "Mignonette," is a story of the old South with all its fine qualities of romance, comedy and tragedy and even the quaint costumes of another day. It is really two plays in one, for the first and last acts are quite modern, while the second act flashes back in time to before the Civil war. All of the atmosphere of the old South is embodied in the whimsical drama. The setting and costumes bear a touch of the crinolene days and give an opportunity for the cast to present a different type of acting.

Sometimes this extra tasty whiskey hits the spot like nothing else!

You know how certain times your mouth feels like it's wanting something real extra tasty in it. It's times like that when you're mighty grateful you have this extra tasty whiskey set aside. It took our family 50 years to learn how to pack all that extra tastiness into a whiskey, but you'll say it wasn't time wasted.

St. Mary Cagers End Season With Win Over Seniors

Coach Marvin Miller Uses 13 Players in 23 to 19 Victory

Menasha—St. Mary High school cagers rang down the curtain on the 1937-38 season with a 23 to 19 victory over the seniors at St. Mary gymnasium Thursday night. The game offered a pre-view of next year's squad for Coach Marvin Miller used 13 men, six of whom played with the "B" squad this year.

As far as basketball was concerned, the game was very ragged. Only two field goals were made during the first half, one by Laux and another by Hopfensperger. The St. Mary team was ahead by a 10 to 5 margin at the intermission. During the second half they increased the lead nine points at one time on baskets by Resch but the seniors rallied, closing the margin to three points, only to fall back again.

The Zephyrs showed the effect of their lay-off since the St. Norbert tourney, missing many set-ups. In addition their floor game was ragged. They were outscored from the field but more than made up for the difference from the first throw line.

C. W. Unter officiated the game and called a total of 33 fouls. The Zephyrs made only six field goals but converted on 11 of 13 free shots. Their opponents made seven field goals and made only six of 19 free shots.

Bill Resch was the game's high scorer with seven points. Prunskis had five points for the regulars while Hoks topped the seniors with five points. The senior scoring was evenly divided.

Public Invited To 'Open House' At Menasha School

Event Will Give Residents An Opportunity to Visit Building

Menasha—Preliminary plans for an "open house" to which the public is invited at the new Menasha High School building were made yesterday afternoon according to F. B. Younger, superintendent of schools. The open house will be held March 25, 26 and 27. Teachers will be in their rooms in the new building between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon and from 7 to 10 o'clock in the evening. Teachers of the city will act as guides and conduct visitors through the new building.

The event will merely be an opportunity for the public to visit the building, according to Mr. Younger, while formal dedication exercises will be held in conjunction with commencement exercises on June 2.

A school program will be presented at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the auditorium. Workmen are now busy in an effort to complete that section before next Tuesday. All of the necessary materials have arrived.

Flags To Be Presented

At the program next Thursday two flags will be presented to the school by the Menasha Women's Relief corps and the auxiliary of James P. Hawley post of the American Legion. The presentations will be made by Mrs. M. J. Grode, and Mrs. C. B. Andersen, while Miss C. E. Andersen will make the presentation for the auxiliary. Two students will give the acceptance speeches.

Speakers at the program will be given by F. B. Younger, superintendent of schools; S. E. Crockett, director of vocational and adult education; and A. J. Armstrong, principal of Menasha High School. The a cappella choir under the direction of Franklyn LeFevre will sing, and the Menasha High School band under the direction of L. E. Kraft will play. The audience will join in singing "The Star Spangled Banner" and "America."

Guests present at the program will include representatives of the Women's Relief corps and the American Legion auxiliary, and students of the school, vocational school, junior high school and of the fifth and sixth grades.

EMPIRE FOR A LADY BY ALAN LEMAY

CHAPTER 47
"IT LOOKS BAD"
Balingong, behind the blackness, remained unseen. The smoke was very heavy here, and would have been a fog by day, but no fire showed. Some part of the town was burning, but slowly, almost without flame.
I whispered, "Put in to shore."
"Zam! The night was split wide open by a single rifle shot, and its unexpected crashing explosion almost jerked me out of my skin. Water splashed up, drenching my face, and instantly, without any command, the bankong whirled like a top as my paddlers spun it upon its keelless bottom. I shouted "Hold it! Linkang ah! Who's there?"
I heard Blair's voice sing out to unseen men, "Hold your fire there, damn you! Paul, is it you?"
I answered him, and stepped over the gunle as the prau grounded. There was more water there than I thought, so that I floundered about idiotically until Blair got hold of me and pulled me upright.
"Well, you win the war," Blair said. His voice was deep and grinding, inconceivably bitter.
"Where's Clyde? Is he all right?"
"Bad—awful bad. He's alive, and that's about all. He got shot in the stomach—there ain't no way to get the lead out. Come on in."
"Pull your bankong up and lie down behind it," I said to my paddlers. "And keep ready to move out." Then I turned and followed Blair, stumbling in the blackness in spite of the fact that my feet knew the familiar way.
Blair had to guide me with a bony arm across my shoulders to the hidden entrance, for the big gate was now permanently closed, and we had to get over the walls by climbing a notched pole that served as a ladder.
A single Chinese lamp burned upon a table, and although the room was very shadowy, the shadows had a blurred golden quality, unlike the blue blackness of the outer night. Apparently everything movable had been brought into this big room in the middle of the house, and all the rooms around the three sides had been closed off their entrances tacked over with matting to shut in the lights.
Seven of the men from the Linkang were sleeping at various places on the floor. Two or three of them looked up and recognized me, but they gave me no greeting. Their eyes were dull, hopeless, sullen, if there was anything in them it was hate. They dropped their heads again, like men who can afford to lose no moment's opportunity to sleep.

And upon a pile of matting in the far end of the room lay James Clyde.
I went to his side, stepping softly, for he seemed to be asleep. He was propped up by mounds of rugs and mats and those gleaming, gold-threaded wall hangings left from Mantusen's loot; and staring down at him, I was glad that the girl he loved could not see him as he was now—gaunt as a death's head, his face such a dead gray that it looked to be touched by mould.
His chest hardly moved, but his breath ran heavily in his throat, and there was a small laboring movement of one nostril as he breathed. Evidently he was not truly asleep for his eyes opened now, and appeared to feel for me as they tried to focus. They managed it at last, and as my uncle and I looked at each other, I was unable to speak. There was a long moment of silence.
Rock-Gray Face
His words were thick and blurred, but his voice came surprisingly strong as he said, "Why the hell don't you shave?" Then his eyes lost their focus again, and, after wandering a moment, were closed.
Blair came up and touched my arm. He motioned with his head to draw me aside, and led the way out. We stood together in the black ruin.
"I was going to move out to-night," he told me "whatever come up. We'd ought to have moved out long ago. But as long as he was on his feet he wouldn't allow it."
His voice went on, weary but unhurried. "Clyde out pretty quick, and they'd begin fighting among themselves, and go home, and that when only the Malays were left we could tie into 'em."
"Do you think he's got a chance?"
"Well, it looks bad. It's three days since he was hit, and he's worse off than he was at the first. After they knocked him over I wanted to make a run for it and try to jam through the river and get back on the ship, but I didn't dast move him. We got the outside bleeding stopped—that was easy. But he bleeds out his throat. That starts every time we

New York —(AP)—Stock market leaders topped 1 to 6 or more points at the worst today under heavy selling waves touched off by a revival of European war fears.

The ticker tape was behind in the first and final hours, as much as 4 minutes at one time, as both domestic and foreign liquidation enveloped virtually all industrial groups and numerous issues sank to new lows for the year or longer. It was one of the widest relapses in months.

After the initial nose-dive, many stocks halted extreme losses and dealings slowed. There was another drop later when volume again expanded. Buying support appeared near the close and recoveries running to a point or so were well distributed.

Transfers approximated 1,500,000 shares. Steels were among the first to slide. U. S. Steel touching a new low for the year, two years ago, along with a number of others. Coppers, motors, farm implements, aircrafts, mail orders, oils and specialties were among the weak spots.

Conspicuous on the downside were Westinghouse, De Pont, Allied Chemical, General Electric, American, Bethlehem, Douglas Aircraft, Loew's, Philip Morris, Johns-Manville, American Telephone, Chrysler, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case, Eastman Kodak, American Smelting, Anaconda, Standard Oil of N. J., Santa Fe, Pullman and Homestake Mining.

U. S. Rubber preferred moved up at the last.

Montgomery Ward Profit Down but Sales Increase

Chicago—(AP)—Montgomery Ward and company Thursday announced 1937 net profit after all charges and taxes amounted to $19,210,029 or the equivalent of $3.41 a share on the common stock, this was somewhat smaller than the 1936 net of $20,198,914 or $4.00 a share on the common.

The announcement, made in a report to stockholders, said net sales for 1937 were $414,000,000, an increase of $32,790,000 or 14.6 per cent over 1936 sales.

Operating expenses increased proportionately more than sales, a report said, with salaries and wages of $56,500,000 representing an increase of 23 per cent. The company's tax bill for 1937 was $10,070,000, which compared with $7,670,000 for the previous year, and was equivalent to half the net profit or $1.92 a share of common stock.

New York Curb Market Takes Downward Slide

New York—(AP)—Metal, chemical and oil shares headed a general downward slide on the curb market today.

Newmont Mining and Aluminum company recently under pressure, had losses of more than 2 points around the beginning of the last hour.

Reports of Rifts In Europe Boost Wheat Quotations

Fresh Upturns Curbed at Chicago by Reports of Rains in Kansas

Chicago—(AP)—Rallies due to persistent reports of severely strained European political conditions lifted wheat values anew late today.

Fresh upturns of wheat prices, though, were somewhat curbed by reports of rains in Kansas. Another handicap to traders was relative smallness of export buying of United States wheat today, estimated at totaling but 200,000 to 300,000 bushels.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were 1/2 to 1 1/2 above yesterday's finish. May 88-89, July 85 1/2, corn 1/2 to 1 cent advanced, and oats 1/2 up.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

Action in Time of Danger

No one now living has known a more solemn hour than that through which we are now passing. In all the regions where the military dictatorships are advancing, the resistance is crumbling. The worst danger still lies ahead. But not far ahead. And while there is still some time and some opportunity to seize this danger, to deal with it, and to master it, there is no time left for irresolution, petty factionalism and inaction.

The great danger is that before the remaining free nations can organize their power and raise their morale and compose their party and class conflicts, there will be an economic relapse so paralyzing that they will be helpless. We see today only the immediate and spectacular effects of the great concerted aggression in Asia and in Europe; but sooner or later we shall feel the indirect consequences, and they will reach further and will cut more deeply.

Teachers to Hold Open Sessions at Convention Here

General Program Will be Given at Rio Theater April 8

The general session and sectional meetings of the Northeastern Wisconsin Education association convention here April 8 will be open to the public, Mrs. Herbert Hackworth, president, said today.

Edwin E. Witte, economics professor at the University of Wisconsin will open the general session at 8:45 in the morning at the Rio theater with an address on social security. An address on the Far East will be given by Captain Patrick Smith and Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, radio's tune detective, will speak on "The Adventures of a Tune Detective."

Places where the various sectional meetings will be held will be announced this week, Mrs. Hackworth said.

Miss Delia E. Kibbe, supervisor of elementary schools in the department of public instruction, will speak before the intermediate sectional meeting. She will talk on "Social Science in the Intermediate Grades." E. G. Doudna, secretary of the normal school board of regents, will talk on "The Amateur Reader" before the same group. B. J. Rock, Ripon superintendent of schools, will preside.

1,400 Farmers to Cooperate in Soil Conservation Plan

Erosion Control Project Will Affect Nearly 209,000 Acres

Madison — (U) — Approximately 1,400 farmers who control nearly 209,000 acres in southwestern Wisconsin are cooperating with the Wisconsin College of Agriculture and the soil conservation service in erosion control demonstrations.

M. F. Schweers, state coordinator, said today the farmers have agreed to follow erosion control plans developed for their lands for a minimum of five years. The projects include reforestation, contour strip cropping, terracing, gully control by vegetation, trees and dams. "Surveys reveal that conservation practices are rapidly spreading among farmers throughout the state," Schweers said. "In many instances, we have found such practices as reforestation, terracing, contour farming and strip cropping adopted by farmers whose land lies outside our demonstration project and camp work areas."

Each of the 1,400 farms enrolled in the five year program lies within the boundaries of one of the state's three watershed demonstration projects or 17 CCC erosion control camp work areas. The watershed projects are located at Coon valley, Fennimore and Independence.

Four of the 17 Wisconsin CCC camps have been abandoned since April 1, 1937, but their work has been carried on by nearby camps or projects, or by conservationists

ELLIOTT PAUL is the man who wrote that curious book called "The Life and Death of a Spanish Town." Now he has written what the booksellers are calling a dark horse; a novel about a group of musicians and critics in Paris which is honestly interesting, not highbrow, often most moving. This he calls "Concert Pitch."

assigned to work with the farmers. Technical and material assistance is furnished in most cases.

Each farm included in a cooperative agreement with the service is considered a "complete" soil conservation demonstration, Schweers said.
